What Is Education?
Gas War Coming.
The Evils of Liquor.
Marvelous New York.

—By Arthur Brisbane—

EDUCATORS BETWEEN the closing and opening of schools, discuss "what is education? What should it do? How can we form the young?" etc.

Educators should start with the meaning of the word "educate," and stick to that. It means "to lead out," to bring out of the youthful mind and capacity that which is in it. It does not mean to force the opinions of teachers on that youthful mind.

Dealing with raw materials, science and industry "educate" those materials by bringing out the best that is in them.

They seek for hardness in steel, for resiliency and wear in rubber. They don't try to make rubber of steel, or steel of the rubber. But that is exactly the process applied to many young minds.

And for that reason, in reading the biographies of many successful men, you find that their first proof of real ability was ability to evade the process of education.

And their greatest good fortune was an irregular education, or none.

A great gasoline price war seems probable. Small retailers on the Pacific coast are crying for government help, accusing big oil men of "unfair price cutting."

Recently, the big men were accusing little men of ruining the industry, and wasting the nation's oil supply.

At this moment, the world has too much oil, too much gasoline, and, in consequence, reckless waste.

Presently will come a shortage. Those that now read, in some places, the sign "gasoline 10 cents plus 2 cents tax," may read "gasoline 50 cents, plus 2 cents tax."

It would seem almost a case to justify government regulation, only that, probably, would be "Bolshevism."

Twenty-five thousand pupils in 274 Bible schools are to be taught "the evils of liquor" and the desirability of leaving whiskey alone, quite apart from prohibition.

Every boy and girl, in this "dry land" needs that teaching. It should begin in the graveyards, made prosperous by bootlegging, continue in hospital wards, and wind up at the "social function," where Americans, of all ages, make fools of themselves and show that they despise the law.

A big city is New York, amazing in growth. Losing hundreds of thousands of population, migrating to outlying suburbs, New York city, in the last 10 years has gained in population 1,335,315, more than 23 per cent.

Of the five boroughs in New York, four have more than a million population each. Queens, one of the boroughs, is probably the fastest growing big scale community in the world, and within a few years, with all respect to Chicago, may be "America's second city."

A German scientist startles Berlin with a long-range loud-speaker that carries a great orchestra to be heard for 25 miles in all directions. A Chicago band could play in the loop and be heard with painful distinctness on the north, south and west sides, and 25 miles out into Lake Michigan.

Think, then, as the old Puritans used to say, when describing hell, how it will be hereafter.

Think of Gabriel's horn that will be heard 25,000 miles in all directions, around the world, bringing the dead from their graves, and reassembling the disintegrated elements into which they will have been dissolved. That will be a real loud speaker.

Prohibition enforcement announces that its energies are concentrated on Eastern States, which, apparently, need them. On the Hudson, just above New York city, enforcement officers seized a large yacht with $250,000 worth of rum. One man shot in a gun battle probably will die.

On New York's Park ave., which is getting more and more expensive, police raided an "exclusive" gambling institution, with liquid refreshments, of course, as part of the attraction.

The "guests in evening attire," said to have lost, individually, as much as $250,000 in a night, were not molested by the police. Apparently we are not all poor yet.

Final figures show that Dwight W. Morrow, in New Jersey, carried every county, and, himself a "wet," beat his nearest competitor, Mr. Fort, a dry, almost 4 to 1.

That Mr. Morrow spent on his campaign less than $50,000 is a

HULTMAN ASKS PUBLIC AID TO FIND GARRETT

Defends Police Against Criticism for Failure to Apprehend Accused Defaulter

The assistance of the general public in the search for Oliver B. Garrett, now in its 18th day, was asked today by Police Commissioner Eugene C. Hultman.

While Boston officers were seeking Garrett at a rum runner's camp on Cape Cod, on a new slur, the police commissioner issued a statement defending the department against public criticism aroused by the failure to capture the former liquor raider.

Commissioner Hultman said, Garrett is a resourceful man, [illegible]

APPEAL TO PUBLIC

Admitting that no definite information regarding the whereabouts of the defaulter had been received, he asked the cooperation of citizens in the search.

"We invite any suggestion, tip or theory that any person may care to offer with the hope that some material matter will be brought forth that will lead to Garrett's arrest.

"Criticism in itself always reminds me of something I heard in my youth," the commissioner said—"Anyone can criticise, but it takes a wise man to do better.

"From the moment that District Attorney Foley notified me that Garrett had been defaulted by the court, every means possible has been taken to bring about his capture.

"In the first place I sent a detective to the courthouse as once when notified of the default, so that we might be armed with the proper credentials to arrest the missing man.

"From that time on, I believe, the department as a whole, from the superintendent to the uniformed patrolman, has taken every means to bring about the arrest of Garrett.

Wound Traps 2 Suspects

POLICEMAN IN GUN BATTLE WITH 3 IN BRIGHTON

Suspects Caught in the South End; One Is Wounded; the Shooting Followed Arrests

In a close-quarters gun fight with three auto thieves in Commonwealth ave., Brighton, early today, Patrolman Owen F. Donovan of Station 14, father of seven children, was [illegible] back.

He is in a serious condition at St. Elizabeth's Hospital but is expected to recover. He is a brother of City Councillor Timothy F. Donovan of East Boston.

At City Hospital, with a bullet in his left breast and also in a serious condition is Joseph E. Smythe, or Smith, 26, of Trenton st., South End, alleged to be one of the policeman's assailants.

IDENTIFIES GOULD

George Gould, 29, identified by Donovan as another of the trio, in whose Washington st., South End apartment Smythe was found, is under arrest in connection with the shooting.

Edward Gould, 27, brother of George, was also taken into custody, but was absolved of any participation in the crime and released. Police are searching for a South End gangster as the third member of trio who attacked Donovan after he was forcing them to drive to the Brighton station in a stolen car.

The wounded patrolman lives at 16 Bradfield ave., Roslindale and his children range in age from an infant of a few months to a child of 14.

His wife is the daughter of former Inspector William J. Rooney, who retired two years ago after 41 years of service in the bureau of criminal investigation.

Donovan was shot as he courageously battled the three thieves, all of whom drew guns. The arrest of Smythe and the two Goulds within an hour after the shooting was as courageous a bit of police work on the part of Patrolman William Dooley of East Dedham st. station.

AROUSED SUSPICION

Shortly after 2 a. m., while Patrolman Donovan was walking along Commonwealth ave., he saw a sedan stop in front of 1066. He saw three men alight and enter the house. As he continued to watch, Donovan saw the men light matches in the hallway, as though they were looking for the number of a certain suite.

Soon they came out and then went into the apartment house at 1066 Commonwealth ave. When they came out of this building Patrolman Donovan approached and asked them what they were doing. One replied that his name was Mc-

AL SMITH IS NOT BIDDEN TO HUB

New York, July 10 (AP)—Former Governor Alfred E. Smith said today he did not know anything about a report that he would campaign for the Democratic ticket in Massachusetts this fall.

He said that not only had he not accepted any such invitation but he had not even received one.

Ex-Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, who had said Gov. Smith would be here for the campaign, said this afternoon that he had been given every assurance that Gov. Smith would be among the speakers to be sent here by the Democratic National committee.

"I talked with John Raskob (chairman of the committee) and he told me the committee appreciated the work done in Massachusetts during the last campaign," the former mayor said.

He was asked if he saw Smith personally and said he hadn't because the former Governor was out of the state.

"Assurances were given me that they would send speakers here for the campaign and that Gov. Smith would be among them," he said.

The Police and Garrett

Who Is Wearing the Blinders?

The people of Boston are accumulating the suspicion that this is not at all a game of hide and seek that is being played between Oliver B. Garrett and some of the members of the Police Department.

Nearly three weeks have now passed since the defiant and contemptuous ex-policeman defaulted his appearance before the court which was ready to try him on the charges of extortion and corruption.

The warrant for his arrest as a fugitive from justice remains unserved upon him. It is in a fair way to accrue a fine coating of moss and to earn for itself a place in the archives where it can be pointed out as an illustration of official inefficiency.

We hear reports of Garrett's being here and there; of his displaying himself like the prize peacock at the poultry show. But we hear none of his being where he ought to be—in the dock, standing trial for his alleged employment of the liquor squad, which he commanded, as a means of collecting graft.

The unsavory mess in the Police Department which shocked its morale and impaired the people's confidence in it will still exhale its unfragrant odor until this matter has been disposed of.

Garrett had once threatened to "blow the lid off." He has repeatedly hinted that any prosecution of him would implicate some people of higher station in the community.

Such circumstances support the possibility that certain police and their influential sponsors are not overly-anxious to locate their former colleague and associate.

Members of the department should realize that Garrett's capture by police officers would help a lot in lifting the stigma of his performances while he was in the service.

JOHNSON FLAYS DAWES ON PACT

Washington, July 10—With prospects of a vote before adjournment tonight Senator Johnson, Republican, of California, reopened the fight in the Senate today to get the diplomatic documents exchanged prior to the London naval parley.

Again only a bare quorum of 49 answered the roll-call.

Senator Johnson, a treaty opponent, upheld the McKellar resolution seeking the papers. He refused to accept the statements of Senator Robinson, Democrat, Arkansas, a delegate to London, and others that the letters and cablegrams were irrelevant and amusing.

"I am perfectly willing to concede," the Californian said, "that the papers may have contained a comic strip and be so excruciatingly funny as to convulse us all, and may contain personal references from perhaps a peppery ambassador from the United States that would cause a world-wide explosion."

HINTS DAWES RECALL.

Senator David A. Reed (R.) of Pennsylvania, one of the American delegates, had hinted that the denied papers were kept confidential because they included curt comments from Ambassador Charles G. Dawes to President Hoover, and might lead to the recall of Dawes from London.

But, Johnson said, other important documents, necessary for a true interpretation of the treaty, were being withheld by the State Department.

Johnson also contended the Ken-

EVIL ONES BANISHED TO SPIRITUAL HADES, SAID DOYLE

WIFE JOINS IN INTERVIEW BY LATE AUTHOR TO VIERECK

A Dialogue With the Late SIR ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE; Recorded by George Sylvester Viereck

EXCLUSIVE

(Copyright, 1930, by the Boston Evening American.)

In this instalment of the remarkable interview he gave shortly before his death, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle draws the curtain on an intensely interesting explanation of his conversion and devotion to spiritualism, probably his last detailed pronouncement on this subject. It is all the more remarkable because of his expressed belief and that of all members of his family that he would return to earth and communicate with those yet alive.

VIERECK—Why don't you ask the spirits for knowledge that would help to make man's progress less troubled?

DOYLE—If we ask the spirits for some technical point such as a problem in wireless, they reply, "You must work out your own salvation. Do not come to us with such things. Our help takes the form of inspirations. We slip ideas into your mind, but you must toil and labor to work them out." Henry Ford speaks of his helpers. I am convinced that the voices he hears are spirit voices.

VIERECK—Modern science denies your doctrine.

DOYLE—No, science moves in our direction. The atom, the ion, radiation, relativity, etc., have conspired to make scientists less cocksure than of old. In many great universities in Europe, spiritualism is studied. In the beginning, when I knew less about spiritualism, I was inclined to say to myself: "If the dead have nothing better to do than rap on tables, death must be a vulgar experience." During the war, when we lost eight members of our family, including my son, I realized that this rapping is like the knock of a friend at the door. If you hear him rap, you must ask him in.

Many soldiers who have been through the fiery oven of war have reached the same conclusion. Our mind must be attuned to receive a message. We must have a medium—a telephone connecting us with the other world. The conditions must be perfect. There must be someone willing to talk to you on the other side and you must be willing to listen. (With deep earnestness) Spiritualism is either not or madness or the most important thing in the world. For me it has blotted out everything else.

I have lectured on Spiritualism in Africa, Australia, America and at home. Faith in spiritualism is strong everywhere. A recent enquiry of the London Daily News elicited 10,000 replies; 2500 stated that the case was "not proved" and 7500 expressed a belief in Spiritualism.

(There is a gentle rapping at the door. If it not, however, a spirit, but Lady Doyle inviting us to a cup of tea. We seated at the table in the large dining room, we continue our conversation.)

VIERECK—Has Lady Doyle seen the fairies? Do they help in the management of the house like the Kobeld in fairy tales?

LADY DOYLE—(Shaking her head smilingly.) The fairies have never bothered or helped me.

LADY DOYLE TALKS

VIERECK—Are you a convert to Spiritualism?

LADY DOYLE—I was not fully converted until the war. I was not converted by my husband but by my personal experience and by the experience of a friend who lost three brothers.

VIERECK—Materialists would say that the human mind invents the hereafter because it cannot face the thoughts of its own annihilation and the total loss of its loved ones.

LADY DOYLE—Spiritualism takes away the fear of the Great Abyss. It fills the heart with anticipation of happiness.

VIERECK—What happiness do you anticipate?

DOYLE—Not singing hymns, or strumming a harp. Life goes on after death. From all reports which I have received, we have a definite home on the other side. We do not drift about like gaseous shadows. Our fate in the other world is linked with the souls of those we love.

LADY DOYLE—Heaven is harmony.

VIERECK—Do we meet our relatives on the other side?

DOYLE—Not necessarily.

VIERECK—Are husbands and wives always reunited?

DOYLE—Not unless they harmonize.

LADY DOYLE—One message said: "Over here the heart is never hurt."

DOYLE—Our dear ones hover near us while love is there. Later on they rise to a second heaven. Then to a third and on and on and on.

VIERECK—Does this mean then that the soul, like the body, passes through various stages of evolution?

(Doyle nods.)

CITES U. S. WRITER

VIERECK—Does spiritualism recognize Hell?

DOYLE—Evil, selfish, backbiting people, prigs who do not play the game, are excluded from Heaven. They live among themselves. This is the only Hell of Spiritualism.

LADY DOYLE—But they may advance if their conduct warrants. Some may be left behind a year or two, like children in school.

DOYLE—A year or two or an eon or two. Before God, a thousand years are as one day.

VIERECK—Where is heaven?

DOYLE—The Kingdom of the Spirit may be in this very room. The spirits may live in the same world as we, governed by another rate of vibration. The land of the spirit may be simply a fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh dimension.

VIERECK—Einstein told me modern mathematicians include in their theories even an infinite number of dimensions.

DOYLE—Einstein merely expressed what every Spiritualist knows. Some time ago, I read in article in an American magazine called SEVEN MINUTES IN ETERNITY. This article, written by an American journalist, upon his own experiences in a trance, corroborates our gospel. After death the new etheric body lies resting for a time. There is something like a bath in the waters of the spirit and a new birth. Then we realize there is no death. After that we are overcome by unspeakable happiness. I have preached it this for years, and this account was only what I have proclaimed from

144 KILLED IN MINE BLAST

Neurode, Germany, July 10 (AP)—At least 144 persons lost their lives yesterday in an explosion at the Wenceslaus mine.

Eighty-one bodies have been recovered, most of them burned badly.

The explosion occurred when a large gas pocket was suddenly tapped during blasting. The fumes spread through the shafts so quickly there was little chance for anyone to escape.

Rescue work was abandoned about midnight, after a number of the crew, fitted with gas masks, had been overcome or injured.

It was possible to save only 49 persons of the 193 in the mine before breaking off the rescue work. All of these, although badly burned, are expected to recover.

Carthy and that he lived in Suite 11.

Donovan then asked them for an automobile license and registration papers. The men replied they did not have any, whereupon the officer declared he would have to take them to the police station. The trio stepped into the sedan and Donovan took a rear seat.

When they reached Cambridge st. at Union sq., the car was stopped and the men said they were not going to go to the station. They pulled guns and all three jumped out of the machine, followed by Donovan, who was covered by the three revolvers.

Donovan started to battle with two of the men and as he struggled the third man ran around the rear of the car and fired a shot into the officer's back. Donovan fell to the street and the men ran for the car to get away.

Lying writhing in pain, Donovan emptied his revolver at his assailants. He said he was sure the one of the six shots took effect.

The men escaped and the officer was found lying unconscious by Harold E. Higgins of 11 Cunningham rd., Wellesley Hills. He saw the men flee and noted the number of the car. He placed the officer in his car and raced to St. Elizabeth's Hospital.

The report of the shooting was flashed from the Brighton station to police headquarters and immediately broadcast on the teletype to all divisions. In turn relayed to patrolmen on their beats through the patrol boxes.

Dooley was informed in less than a half hour after it happened and shortly before 3 o'clock he saw George Gould enter an all-night restaurant in Washington st., and go to a wall telephone.

His suspicion aroused, he followed and heard Gould call a doctor and tell him there was an injured man in the Washington st. apartment.

When Gould had finished his telephone conversation Dooley confronted him and demanded to know what the accident had been.

Gould's reply that there had been an accident and his evasion of further direct questions increased the patrolman's suspicions, but he did not at that time detain him.

Instead, he trailed him to the Washington st. apartment house which backs up to the side of the East Dedham st. station.

Drawing his gun, Dooley burst into the second floor apartment and found Smythe in bed, partially unconscious, with George Gould and his brother, Edward, sitting on either side of the bed.

He forced the Goulds to stand against the wall with their hands upraised and still covering them with his gun moved to a window and shouted to a taxi driver in the street below to bring help.

Sergt. Harrington, Wyand and Patrolmen Walsh and Boudreau responded and the three were arrested, Smythe being rushed to City Hospital.

FIND STOLEN AUTO

In the meantime, the stolen car, in which the shooting occurred, was found abandoned at Washington and Beaconsfield, Brookline. Special Officer Henry Donovan of headquarters located Charles Amoling, Brookline cab driver, who said he had driven three men from that spot to the South End.

Amoling was taken to the hospital, but could not identify Smythe. At the station he identified George Gould as one of the three.

The latter was then taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital, where Officer Donovan identified him as the man who occupied the rear seat in the stolen car with him before the shooting started.

A search of the Gould apartment revealed no weapons but Sergt. Wyand with Special Officers Donovan and James McDonald, leaning out of the window, spied two revolvers lying on a coping over the entrance to the appartment house.

These were recovered and proved to be .45 and .38-caliber weapons, from each of which one shot had been fired.

'A Proof of Spiritualism'

SPIRIT?—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle used this photograph as proof of spiritualism, saying it was the picture of a materialized spirit face in formation, showing the viscous material called ectoplasm, that issued from a French medium, "Eva," by which spirit forms are created. These mediums, he believed, have the gift of putting forth from their bodies a gelatinous substance.

INDIAN'S SPIRIT TO SEND CALL TO DOYLE

"Red Cloud" of American Medium Fame Has Promised the First "Message"

By ROBERT WELLES RITCHIE
Universal Service Special Cable

London, July 10 — "Red Cloud," one of the stock spirit controls of American mediums, has promised to try to bring to the world the first spirit message from Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, whose earthly form will be interred in the garden of his Crowborough home tomorrow.

"Red Cloud" will be urged, at a Sunday memorial service for the late departed in Albert Hall, to contact the soul of the creator of Sherlock Holmes and send to the earth his first public message from the astral plane.

"CLOUD" WILLING

Mrs. Estelle Roberts, one of the late writer-spiritist's favorite clairvoyants, who is quite friendly with "Red Cloud," has already broached the subject of the spirit control and has been promised his best endeavors.

Mrs. St. Clair Stobart, chairman of the Spiritualist community of London, who is very intimate with Lady Doyle, told Universal Service that Sir Arthur's first message would probably be private and for his family alone, and hence would go unpublished.

"Nevertheless," she said, "I hope Sir Arthur is by now strong enough to give a public message at the memorial service. This will once and for all silence the skeptics and scoffers."

Meanwhile, there is no unusual spiritistic atmosphere prevailing at the Doyle home, Windlesham, in Crowborough, Sussex. Preparations for the quiet funeral service in Windlesham's garden tomorrow are complete.

DELAYED BY PENANCE

"Phineas," the spirit control of Lady Doyle, who is entirely mediumistic herself, has failed thus far to bring a message from the beyond regarding Sir Arthur. It was believed that "Phineas" would serve until Sir Arthur's spirit become strong enough to transmit thoughts to his family and friends.

The belief was expressed again here today that the reason for Sir Arthur's delay in communicating was that a period of penance must be undergone before a new spirit is permitted to visit its friends on the worldly plane.

Frauds have been guarded against in the pact which Sir Arthur made with Lady Doyle before his death Monday. The late departed had arranged to give his wife a first message in a code to which no others possess the key.

Washington Medium Has First Doyle "Message"

Washington, July 10 (INS)—Well, it has happened!

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle has started his communication from the spirit world—if you will believe Helen Frances Colburn, local medium.

She claimed today to have received a long message from the noted creator of "Sherlock Holmes." It was addressed, she said, to "The People of America," and said, in part:

"I am saddened to leave my dear ones. But I have my soul. I trust that your paths may lead you to such a glorious world as I now find myself in."

The message described death as "only the shutting of the eyes in this world and opening them in the next."

TREASURY SETS RECORD FOR DRY ARRESTS

68,186 Fell Into Clutches of the Law During Year Ended June 30

Washington, July 10 (INS)—When the Treasury relinquished control of prohibition, June 30, Secretary Mellon's department had set up a new record in enforcement activities by the arrest of 68,186 persons for violation of the Volstead act during the fiscal year.

In addition the government forces seized 8778 automobiles, 1,320,000 gallons of distilled spirits and 4,800,000 gallons of malt spirits. While comparable figures were not available for the preceding year, officials said new records had been set in each case.

Seizures of stills numbered 24,373, an increase of about 7000 as compared to the 1929 fiscal year, and by far the largest number since the prohibition law was put on the statute books. There was a uniform rate of still seizure, about 2000 a month throughout the year.

The Southeastern states led in number of stills seized, mostly small plants, whereas in some of the big centers of population like New York, Chicago and Detroit a fewer number of larger capacity outfits were taken.

Much of the effectiveness of the Treasury's efforts in making heavy arrests and seizures was counterbalanced, however, by the inability of the courts to handle the cases with dispatch. The year ended with a serious congestion of court dockets.

HULTMAN GETS AFTER GARRETT

from anyone that will aid us in Garrett's apprehension.

"To be frank, we are anxious to receive information in any form.

"When Garrett failed to appear in court I called a conference, which was held within an hour of his default, between Superintendent Crowley and Deputy Superintendent McDevitt.

"At that time I informed both that it was my honest belief that Garrett was not a rational man, and to cope with a man of his type in the pursuit of any kind, no matter how ridiculous, should be dispensed with before it was thoroughly investigated.

"I told them that everything humanly possible should be done to bring about his arrest. The public are not altogether familiar with all the clues and information that had come through the department.

"Neither are they familiar with the detail that has been investigated during this man hunt.

"I'm satisfied from what has been brought to my attention that the police officials in charge of the work and the force as a whole have done and are doing everything possible to bring this man to trial.

NO RIGHT TO DEFAULT

"No matter what Garrett's reasons are, he or no other person has any right to default trial.

"Because of what I have learned or read of the spectacular stunts Garrett has taken part in, I made sure in the first place to instruct the heads of the department to use every means known to them to bring about his arrest.

"In my short time as head of the police department, I have learned something of the so-called dragnet, and as far as I am aware, the police department is doing everything possible to locate and arrest Garrett.

"Criticism of the police in the hunt for Garrett is easy for those who do not know the countless clues which have been run down and the tireless efforts of detectives to apprehend him."

Although the Cape Cod search is prosecuted with great secrecy, it was discovered that Special Officers Peter Di Bona and William Condon have been on the trail since July 3.

It was also learned they have with them photographs of men who were sought by police a few years ago in connection with one of the biggest rum-running projects in the East.

The headquarters in question was reliably reported to be equipped with short wave radio receiving and sending apparatus and telephones and a three-mile concrete road extending from the waterfront through the woods.

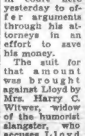
Harold Lloyd Denies "Plot Pirating" in Court

Los Angeles, July 10—Harold Lloyd, film comedian and defendant in a $1,000,000 suit for plagiarism, appeared in court here yesterday to offer arguments through his attorneys in an effort to save his money.



Harold Lloyd

The suit for that amount was brought against Lloyd by Mrs. Harry C. Witwer, widow of the humorist slangster, who accuses Lloyd of "pirating" a Witwer story to use as his scenario of "The Freshman."

The case is in its final stages, with the presentation of arguments by opposing counsel. Lloyd declared in his own defense that the plot was years old, and he cited Frank Merriwell and other juvenile works. The film, "Grandma's Boy," was projected in the courtroom in support of the comedian's contention that he had used the plot before.

AFFLICTED PASS FENCED GRAVE OF FATHER POWER FOR OLD PLOT

CRIPPLED WAR VETERAN IS VISITOR

Sick From Out of State Start Pilgrimage to the Holy Cross Cemetery

Passing by the fenced grave of Patrick J. Power in Holy Cross Cemetery, Malden, today, supplicants were visiting the old plot from which his casket was removed last winter.

Kneeling singly and in groups, they prayed for relief from ailments and rubbed earth and weeds on afflicted and withered limbs.

A World War veteran from New York, with a paralyzed left arm, said he had visited the old grave for two weeks, rubbing earth on his arm, with the result he now feels a slight quiver in his wrist.

He plans to return to New York Sunday carrying with him earth from the old grave. A woman from Connecticut, paralyzed in both legs, was carried to the fence around the new grave and held upright while she prayed for relief.

Out of town motorists continued to visit the cemetery, duplicating the rush of yesterday when more than 250 persons sought solace on the first day of the re-opening.

Many of them visited the old grave on finding that the new plot was fenced in. They dug up weeds from the old grave and in some instances dirt, placing them carefully in receptacles.

Cars from Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Hampshire and Ontario were noted among the arrivals.

HUSTON DEFIES G. O. P. LEADERS TO OUST HIM

National Committeemen Recess Without Action After the Morning Session

Washington, July 10 (AP)—An unrelenting Claudius Huston went into a closed conference today with the officers of the Republican national committee who are demanding his immediate retirement as chairman.

The conference recessed at noon without reaching a decision.

Informed that the Tennesseean would fight, two of the officers consulted President Hoover for half an hour before the meeting. They were James Francis Burke, counsel of the committee, and Joseph R. Nutt, treasurer, both of whom insist that Huston retire.

MOSES HIS ONLY ALLY

Huston reached headquarters exactly at the appointed hour today and silently led his disgruntled forces into the long committee room. Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, who leads the party's senatorial committee, appeared to be the only ally of the harassed chairman present.

William G. Skelly, national committeeman for Oklahoma, arrived shortly before noon and hastened into the meeting.

There was an intimation that Huston would be asked to call the executive committee together, in event he declined to resign.

After the committee had been in session a short time, photographers were admitted to take a picture.

WON'T SEE HOOVER

Efforts to have Huston go to see President Hoover this morning failed. He was not asked directly, however, and the suggestion was offered only as a wish by a mutual friend of the President and Huston.

Hoover and Huston are friends of long standing. Huston was Assistant Secretary of Commerce when Hoover was Secretary, and was one of the most active in the Hoover Presidential campaign.

Smiling after the morning's conference, Huston received newspapermen in his office. He said:

"I will have a statement to make late today. The statements attributed to me in the morning papers are correct."

The statements referred to were repetitions of his determination not to resign, despite calls for such action from Republican congressional quarters.

Two Claim Her

SAYS DANCER IS LOST DAUGHTER

New York, July 10—"Beautiful Maria Fokine, the dancer, is my long lost daughter. Judge George F. Ewald, my former husband, is her father."

Mrs. Betty Schwartz Ewald, who on May 7, 1923, was granted a divorce from Magistrate Ewald by Supreme Court Justice Leonard A. Gregerich, made this claim yesterday to Asst. Dist. Atty. James J. Daly.

A maid at the New York residence of the dancer, who said she had been in the family's service for 20 years, said:

"Maria Fokine is not the daughter of Judge Ewald and the judge's first wife. She is the daughter of Judge Ewald's sister, Mrs. Julia Dietzel, who is now in Canada. Mrs. Ewald has made this claim of being Maria's mother to Mrs. Dietzel, but Mrs. Dietzel regards it as preposterous. Maria was born in Holland."

Maria has been away from New York for a year, appearing on the stage in Europe, according to the maid. She is married to Vitale Antonoff Fokine, Russian dancer.

PROVIDES FUND TO AID GODDARD ROCKET TEST

Guggenheim Contribution to Help Solve Secrets of Atmospheric Regions

Worcester, July 10—Daniel Guggenheim has provided a fund for the continuation of Prof. Robert H. Goddard's rocket experiments at Clark University, it was announced today.

These experiments in rocket propulsion to high altitudes, already in progress for 15 years, promise great benefits to aviation and radio as well as to science in general, which possesses at present only a theoretical knowledge of the atmosphere 20 miles above the earth.

Small rockets already used by Prof. Goddard have been propelled by the recoil of gas explosion and the start of one from the testing field here a year ago aroused the countryside.

VALUABLE INFORMATION

While experiments with powder rockets have been successful, indications are that liquid propellants are much more efficient and are capable of greater development.

No immediate experiments with large rockets are contemplated.

Perfection of Professor Goddard's rocket will mean that thermometers, barometers, electrical measuring apparatus, air traps to collect samples of air and other instruments may be sent to extreme altitudes to bring back much needed information.

It is planned to shoot the rocket straight up and to control its descent by means of a parachute. Its greatest weight will be in the liquid propellants which naturally will be exhausted in flight.

When one of the rockets is perfected, and this is admittedly a matter of years, much valuable information will be obtained in the fields of meteorology, astronomy, radio broadcasting and aviation.

For inftance, it is expected that a great deal will be learned of the spectrum of the sun above the ozone layer from 50 to 75 miles above the earth's surface.

MAPS FOR FLIERS

In the field of meteorology and as a particular aid to aviation, it may be possible to prepare high elevation weather maps.

Professor Goddard's first report on his experiment was made in 1916 and was published by the Smithsonian Institute three years later. He has developed a new and valuable method of reaching high altitudes, which has been shown to be operative in theory.

Experiments have been so conclusive that they will be continued under the direction of a committee consisting of Dr. J. C. Merriam, president of Carnegie Institution; Dr. Charles G. Abbot of the Smithsonian Institution; Charles F. Marvin of the Weather Bureau, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, Dr. R. A. Millikan of California Institute of Technology, Dr. Walter S. Adams of Mt. Wilson Observatory, Pasadena, Cal.; John A. Fleming, acting director of the Department of Terrestrial Magnetism of Carnegie Institution, and Henry Breckinridge.

JOHNSON HITS AT DAWES

ate should know what took place at the conference between Prime Minister MacDonald and President Hoover on the Rapidan about a year ago.

He said it was obvious that "some kind of an agreement was made between the Prime Minister and the President."

After Johnson had finished there was a clash between Senator Reed and Senator Copeland (D.) of New York, in which the Pennsylvania senator revealed that the American and Japanese delegations in London had discussed the terms of the Washington treaty which prohibited fortification of the Pacific.

U. S. THREAT TO QUIT

Reed said, in effect, that the American delegates had threatened to amend the Washington treaty in order to fortify some of the American possessions in the Pacific unless Japan agreed to a reduction of naval strength in those waters.

"Was any effort made to modify the terms of the Washington treaty?" Copeland asked.

"It was stated that unless certain matters were agreed upon, the United States might be compelled to change that treaty," said Reed. "The American delegation was anxious to limit cruiser strength to the 10—6 ratio and to keep naval tonnage down in the Pacific to a reasonable figure.

"Unless these conditions were met, the American Government said it might not be possible to continue the agreement on nonfortification of the Pacific beyond the limit of the Washington treaty."

60 Negro Gold Star Mothers Sail Unhappy at Slights

New York, July 10 (AP)—Sixty Negro gold star mothers will sail on the liner American Merchant Saturday to visit the graves of their sons in France, but a spokesman said today that "many of them will sail unhappily because of inferior boat and hotel accommodations and discrimination made in segregating them."

Walter White, acting secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, voicing the dissatisfaction of those who expected to sail had cancelled their reservations and sent a protest to President Hoover against their segregation from other groups.

Col. Alexander E. Williams of the War Department said the American Merchant is a sister ship of the Somme and the Cambral, used to transport officers and their families to United States possessions.

GAMBLING RAID LEADS TO TROUBLE

New York, July 10 (INS)—Three warrants for wayward girls, which detectives used to raid what they called the "most luxurious gambling establishments since the time of Harry Canfield," today threatened to cause those detectives a lot of trouble.

Many people do not agree with the detectives that George Morrick's 20-room ultra-fashionable apartment, occupying the eighth floor of a Park ave., building housed gaming tables and catered to the urge of millionaires to risk thousands in prohibited games of chance.

Two detectives forced their way into the apartment house, and, ousting the elevator operator, ran the car up to the Herrick suite. They heard, claim the officers, the rattle of dice and the low moans of the losers, broken with the tinkle of ice in glasses they were sure contained illegal liquors. The detectives broke down the door, they said, and found evidence that 40 men and women had fled hastily leaving behind a collection of opera hats and sticks and evening wraps. They further said they collected 19 table covers marked off for dice games, nine sets of dice, a chemin de fer outfit, croupier's rake and 18 bottles of liquor.

When they arraigned Herrick and his negro valet, however, the detectives produced only one green table cover and a bottle of colorless liquid they said was gin.

Gillespia Povey, superintendent of the apartment building, said that he followed the detectives into Herrick's suite and saw no evidence of gambling or that anyone had left hastily. Herrick was a model tenant, he testified, and it was the detectives who made the disorder, piling the contents of drawers on the floor.

Herrick and his valet were released on $500 bail.

Bank Sues Brokers for $500,000 Draft

A suit for $500,000 was filed today by the Fourth Atlantic National Bank against George H. McFadden & Bros., cotton brokers of Congress st.

Rivinius is now awaiting trial for alleged larceny of the money obtained on the draft.

Tacoma, Wash., July 10 (AP)—An air race across the Pacific from Tacoma to Tokyo loomed today as a possibility.

Lieut. Harold Bromley is expected here tomorrow with a monoplane designed for the flight. Bob Wark and Eddie Brown, pilot and co-pilot of the biplane "Pacific Area," also announced they planned to have their ship in shape for the hop "in time to give Bromley a race."

Bromley expects to be ready for the flight in 10 days. Bromley's flight would be non-stop without refueling. Wark and Brown's would be non-stop, but they expect to refuel.

The Boston couple later completed their air journey to Independence, Kan., where their daughter was stricken with influenza.

MILLIONAIRE'S WIFE IS FREED

Bridgeport, July 10 (AP)—Mrs. Marion Clausen Black, prominent Southport and Redding society woman, today was granted a divorce from her husband, Witherbee Black, millionaire New York jeweler, by Judge Carl Foster in Superior Court.

Judge Foster also approved an agreement awarding Mrs. Black $25,000 a year alimony and custody of two children, Barbara, 20, and James Gordon, 13.

In the suit, which was heard before a referee in chambers, Mrs. Black charged that her husband deserted her in 1925. They were married in 1902, and have two other children, both married. Black did not contest the action.

Haas Qualifies as Ludlow Judge Again

Springfield, July 10 (AP)—George B. Haas was today qualified as trial justice of Ludlow, having received his appointment from the governor and council yesterday after a hearing which was conducted by the attorney-general's office and in which no justification of criticisms was found. The county commission today said it would provide the court with a courtroom if the selectmen refused to return the keys of the courtroom to the judge.

TAX EXPERT ON STAND IN BIG FRAUD CASE

Providence, July 10 (AP)—Earl S. Clark, local accountant, and treasurer of the American Society of Certified Public Accountants, went on the stand today before U. S. Commissioner Fred A. Otis here at a hearing to determine whether he should be removed to District of Columbia to face a charge of filing a fraudulent tax refund for $100,000.

The hearing was continued until July 24. Briefs are to be filed during the interval.

Clark was indicted by a Washington federal grand jury, asserting that he had inserted in files of the treasury department a false tax refund claim on behalf of the Busch Machine Tool Co., of Springfield, Mass., by which he was retained as tax expert in 1927.

Clark testified he was in Washington Oct. 10 or 11, 1929, when the government alleges the fraudulent claim was inserted in the files, and that he perused files of the bureau, but that a treasury agent was not more than three or four feet from his elbow at all times.

Conan Doyle's Final Spiritualism Talk

American platforms time and again.

VIERECK—Are you a psychic yourself?

DOYLE—No. My guide comes through my wife.

VIERECK—Are spiritual messages always clear?

"NEVER TOO OLD"

DOYLE—It depends on the conditions. At one session three distinct spirit voices were speaking at one time while the medium lay in a trance. The spirit of Stead addressed itself to a journalist present. At the same time a lady spoke conveying personal reminiscences to my wife. Finally there was a mother sending a message to her son, an important message, a message that I would like to impress upon you.

VIERECK—What was that message?

Doyle—"We are never too old to learn a great new truth."

VIERECK—Is Spiritualism inimical to other religions?

DOYLE—By no means. The spirit of the Universe manifested itself on the earth in Buddha, Moses, Christ and Mohammed. It manifests itself today in the new movement. There is nothing in Spiritualism that is irreconcilable with the Sermon on the Mount. The new knowledge fills the old forms and gives a new reality to religion. Religion is half dead today. It can be resuscitated only by Spiritualism.

The Jew, the Catholic, the Protestant, the Mussulman, the Hindu all believe that life is continuous. But they do not all realize that communication with those who have passed on is possible. Spiritualism is the most important contribution to religious thought. No other religion tells us definitely what happens after death. The Pagans did not know. They went to the oracles as we go to fortune-tellers but they lacked spiritual insight.

STANDS BY FAITH

VIERECK—May I write freely what you have told me?

DOYLE—Yes. You may say anything you please about me, about my house, you may call me a fool or a scoundrel, but do not ridicule my faith.

(Doyle accompanied the interviewer to his car and waves a friendly good-bye. The car is about to start.)

DOYLE: (asking the chauffeur, with a motion of his hand, to wait) General Booth at the end of one of his meetings saw a young man leaving the hall. The general stopped the youth and said sternly: "Are you saved?" The young man looked at him in surprise and said: "No, sir, I am a journalist." I hope that your attitude toward spiritualism will be somewhat more enlightened. (He smiles and waves his hand good-bye.)

VIERECK: (to the chauffeur) Do you ever take part in Sir Arthur's seances?

CHAUFFEUR—Yes, sir. Sir Arthur is very kind. He treats me like an equal.

VIERECK—Are you a believer?

CHAUFFEUR—It is a little too deep for me.

VIERECK—Has Sir Arthur converted many of the villagers?

CHAUFFEUR—He has many converts elsewhere, but few at home.

Lawyers on both sides submitted a joint set of facts so there would be no trial of the case and the judge will give his decision next week.

NO ACTION ON LOUD RADIOS TILL JULY 21

Late radio and other concerts that led to a public hearing on curbing the volume of their sound, will be unmolested at least until July 21, it was announced today, as the hearing committee studied the pros and cons of an ordinance proposed by Councillor Robert G. Wilson of Dorchester.

The proposal struck a snag when protesters flocked to City Hall to voice opposition.

More than a score of radio jobbers were represented by counsel and Councillor Clement A. Norton of Hyde Park headed the opposition of citizens.

The ban was proposed for the hours between 11 p. m. and 7 a. m.

CARROLL WITH GIRLS IN COURT

New York, July 10 (AP)—Through a cluster of 200 persons who gathered on the sidewalks outside, Earl Carroll, Broadway producer, made his way into Jefferson Market court today with eight dancers and showgirls from his newest revue, and again gave himself up to the law.

A warrant for Carroll, who landed in Atlanta prison because of perjury in connection with his famous bathtub party four years ago, was issued yesterday after police had raided his "Vanities." Carroll was not at the theater when the raid was made.

Carroll's appearance today was brief, for a few minutes after he and his showgirls entered the courtroom the trial was adjourned until tomorrow, so his attorney might familiarize himself with the case.

Among those who appeared with him at court today was Faith Bacon, whose dance, in an attire of two ostrich fans, the police considered indecent. The showgirls under arrest appeared in a tableau scene, in which they represented wax figures coming to life.

CITE MENACE TO EDUCATION

Washington, July 10 (AP)—Dangers from increasing federal control of education constitute the main problem found by President Hoover's committee studying the government's educational activities.

This was shown today in a memorandum of progress prepared to stimulate public consideration of the situation.

The director of the inquiry, Dr. Henry Suzzalo, reported that special money grants have been steadily enhancing "the legal and psychological power of federal agencies to control education in the states, and gradually decreasing the capacity of local communities to manage their own educational affairs."

Principles agreed upon tentatively call for opposition to Federal appropriations for education which must be matched by the States and favor grants in aid of education as a whole to "supplant special grants for the stimulation of particular types of training."

Worcester Man, 100, Gets Hoover Letter

CABBIE FLIER GETS NEW PLANE

By GEORGE HAMBLIN

Competition among student fliers is naturally very keen, especially when they are flying in the courses of the same company, but it remains for two Boston boys to demonstrate how keen rivalry can be when they are engaged in the same line of work, and learning to fly on the side.

This situation was brought to light today when a new model American Eagle, powered with a 100 horsepower Kinner engine, was delivered to Johnny Powers, direct from the factory in Kansas City, Mo.

Powers is in the taxicab business in Boston, and owned another ship last year. He just got the plane back to Boston, having taken delivery at the factory, flew it a dozen hours here, and then was forced into the water of the harbor with a dead motor.

ENTERS RIVAL

Undaunted, but wisely deciding to wait for the spring, to see what new types of planes would be brought out, Powers parked the plane in moth balls, and sat on the fence, waiting for something to happen.

While he was waiting, Eddie Boucher, another taxi cabbie, came along and signed up with Walter Rogers and Gus Hans for a flight course. As the winter rolled along, Boucher soloed, built up the required ten hours, and was granted his private pilot's license.

Powers didn't say a word, but vowed that some day soon he was going to get back flying again. Al Hughes, eastern sales representative for American Eagle Aircraft, dropped into town, took a look at Powers' old job, made an offer on a trade in, and Bill Briggs arrived with a new ship today.

George Watkins, prominent local commercial pilot, who taught Powers to fly, hopped the ship, and placed his O. K. on it, as did Sam Loftin, chief aviation pilot, U. S. N., station on the U. S. S. Wyoming.

CLIMBS FAST

The Eagle seats two passengers in front, with the pilot in back, open cockpit. According to the boys who flew it, and what could be seen from the ground, the craft gets off like a sacred jackrabbit, and climbs well with a full load.

Briggs, who is also a test pilot for American Eagle, stated he stepped only three times from Kansas City, and made the complete trip in 15 hours flying time. Stops were made at Rantoul, Ill., Ft. Wayne, Mich. and Buffalo.

Boucher was one of the first to congratulate Powers on his new acquisition.

"Drifting" down from Springfield in a Lockheed Vega cabin monoplane, Wasp powered, Frank Cordover, demonstration pilot for the company, dodged thunder storms all the way, but still made the 90 miles in 30 minutes.

Cordover flew the same ship to a new record between Falmouth and Boston recently, clicking 15 minutes for the distance.

"Still on my demonstration-sales tour of the country," said Cordover when asked the nature of his hop to Boston.

HARD-SOFT LARGE-SMALL CORNS

Out To Stay Out--Roots and All Magic Oxygen Salts Bath Never Fails. No More Burning Aching Feet.

No matter how many corns you have or how painful they are—soak your feet for 15 minutes in a delightfully soothing and revitalizing Radox footbath for 3 or 4 nights—then lift corns and callouses right out—roots and all and they won't come back either unless you wear shoes again which aggravate your feet.

No cutting or digging is required because Radox liberates oxygen which softens the outer layers of corns, each night penetrating the pores further and further, carrying the salts right to roots of corns which are so loosened they can be lifted out bodily.

Your feet are made strong—healthy, vigorous—hard skin on heels and toes goes also.

All good druggistores are stocked with Radox—if they aren't insist upon them ordering it if you want to experience great foot-joy and comfort.

Hub Women Awakening to Political Opportunities

Editor Boston American:

Massachusetts women are awakening to the importance of politics in their lives. They believe that they can't pass by this subject any longer. Many of them are diligently applying themselves to the study of federal and civic matters.

Boston abounds in more organizations offering opportunities for women in new fields of venture than any other city in the Union.

Women are being trained here for wider service. They are "visiting up" new positions and opportunities that once were denied them. Whatever woman has accomplished in new fields of activity, she has proven her ability. This Boston opportunity in the many organizations advancing woman's interest in civics and economics is one that will impress itself upon other cities and towns of this country.

Terms Pole Sitting Foolish Occupation

Editor Boston American:

Ralph D'Agostino, the pole percher, worries about the lack of appreciation for his high qualities of sportsmanship and championship. So he admits that flagpole sitting has something to do with public appreciation. Nobody will deny it. No flagpole sitter would do the job for sports sake, unnoticed in his endeavors without the hope of public reward in some form or other.

This should suffice to justify the expression of my private opinion about flagpole sitting. It is foolishness in the extreme, it is absurdity in perfection. It is not sport for sport's sake, but sensation for sensation's sake. But it is not even that, since it aims to exploit public eagerness for sensation for money's sake. As I see it, a flagpole sitter is nothing of the kind like a hero in sports, he is not even the victim of public sensation. On the contrary he makes the public a victim, abusing its natural sense of sensation, confusing sport and nonsense in his own mind and that of others and perverting the value of records into records of absurdity.

Public opinion, indeed, would deserve all the sarcastic remarks which apparently have been made by some of the people in Brockton to the flagpole sitter himself, if it would pay any positive attention to such performances. The lack of interest and of appreciation shown by the public is a general assurance that sense and reason are not yet gone.

Yours sincerely,

DR. H. LINHARDT.

Flays Secret Treaty Moves by Hoover

Editor Boston American:

I am wondering. To go back to the beginning of things, God made Adam. Then, seeing it was not good for man to be alone, Eve came as a companion. All things that could possibly be desired this side of heaven were given them—save one, the forbidden fruit. God, the creator, asked only one thing of his creatures—obedience.

But the law was broken. Came disgrace and driven forth from the Garden of Eden, an angel with a flaming sword shut the door to peace forevermore. Condemned to death with their posterity. Abel and Cain—and Cain slew Abel for the favor of a jealous God. The beginning of war!

Why talk of peace in the light of Creation? Why not rather speak of Justice and Right and the courage to maintain them?

Secret diplomacy has been the bane of civilization. "Open agreement openly arrived at." This slogan is held by the entire world as the solution of most of our difficulties, particularly in our own country of America. This splendid idea is now being violated by the President of the United States by his trying to force upon the United States Senate a compact arrived at in secrecy and denying the right to the representatives of the people to a full and intelligent knowledge of what has gone before, before this compact is ratified.

How far can a President go in this direction before "he can be impeached?"

"A wild bear was sharpening his tusks against a tree when a fox, coming by, asked why he did so; 'for,' he said, 'I see no reason for it; there is neither hunter nor hound in sight, nor any danger that I can see, at hand.' 'True,' replied the boar, 'but when the danger does arise, I shall have something else to do than to sharpen my weapons.' Moral: It is too late to sharpen the sword when the trumpet sounds to draw it."

Any man with brains enough to see a hole in a 10-foot ladder can see the fox in this picture.

She Wants Fighting Units Kept in Shape

Editor Boston American:

This glorious free country has its hazards like all individuals.

The individual has to be prepared for loss, even if that loss never comes (the fire department and fire insurance), and at the same time try to prevent and keep from fire.

Fire, fire will spring up in short order out of almost nothing.

The same with war and foreign nations, we can never be sure of them; they are a hazard that this country must think about; that it is due to the population that the war department is in No. 1 order, ready to be called and put into action at a minutes notice. What more diabolical thing than to do away with the fire department and leave the inhabitants to such a hazard.

Just the same with war, there is no need of war any more than fire; but fire and war will happen, do what you will to prevent it, and then what disastrous consequences occur for the negligence of not being prepared for and ready at a minute's notice.

These same people, who are shrieking and crying for no arms and no ships would be the first to flee in terror if the coast of our country were invaded by airplanes and submarines.

What would be the good of what might have been, if they came and found us gullible fools and destroyed and killed many thousands of people, homes and cities before we could gather what was left of our fighting department?

MRS. AMY SCOTT DRAPER.

Says Pilgrims Were More Modern

Editor Boston American:

Personally I am indebted to your paper for allowing a frank discussion over the Puritans. Now is the seasonable year to pay more tribute to the Pilgrims and bring out their tolerance towards those who did not agree with them. This was shown in the early history of Plymouth. The history of tolerance is so different there than what you find in Salem or even Boston in the early periods.

Personally the Pilgrims were more modern in their ideas of justice than the Puritans. We are led to admire the Puritans for much that they accomplished amid adverse circumstances. But Myles Standish in treating with the Indians at Eastham, Cape Cod, is very questionable where he thought nothing of swindling them in exchanges.

The Pilgrims knew how to deal with Indians along the lines of William Penn, but the Puritans at times lacked tact and peaceable methods. While both made their mistakes, I think that the Pilgrims have more in their favor than we are giving them during this tercentenary year in public print.

A Watch Dog That Was Right on the Job

Editor Boston American:

Two men were recently sentenced in New England for burglary. They had broken into a small store located in a town near a railroad station.

The manager of the store was awakened by the furious barking of the watch dog, a powerful looking animal, and found two men standing on a table with the watch dog snarling at them. He told the dog to watch, "sic 'em," were his words. The manager was telephoned to the police. The burglars were caught. This a faithful dog did.

The slain man was Hung Wah Hung, president of the Tong Ong. It was the second slaying of a Chinese in a theater within a few months.

LYNDE HOUSE, MELROSE

ON THE HIGHWAY leading from Malden sq. to Melrose, at 86 Main st., stands the house of Joseph Lynde, erected in 1670. Ensign Thomas Lynde built the house for his son, Joseph, and it passed down through six generations to a descendant also named Joseph, before leaving possession of the family.

Thomas lived with his son after the completion of the house, until his death in 1693.

The house commands attention, for it is a large structure and an interesting example of Colonial workmanship. Still used for purposes of every day occupancy, it is serving its third century of usefulness, and it looks capable of beginning a fourth .

WOOD FROM ENGLAND

The stair-rails, wainscoting and tiles came from England, as at the date of its construction, they could not be secured in America.

The family history began with Deacon Thomas Lynde, the first settler by that name in this country. He built a home in Charlestown and was one of the deputies to the General Court in 1636. He was born in England in 1593, and died in Malden in 1673.

Evidently he must have risen to a prosperous standing for in his will he bequeaths to his wife, Rebecca, "my Negro boy, Peter, and Negro girl, Sally, to enjoy and dispose of as she sees good." His will contains one of the first references to slavery in New England.

FOUGHT INDIANS

His son, Ensign Thomas Lynde, was the oldest of his children. He joined the militia organized in Malden to protect the outlying settlements from Indian attacks. He gave faithful service in garrison duty, and was instrumental in bringing about the death of King Philip, ending that Indian's reign of terror.

Melrose is laid out in attractive grounds upon which stand well-kept homes amid shrubbery and flowers. With Malden, it was noted during the Revolution for its number of volunteers.

Tomorrow—Old Church, Revere.

FIND MAN DEAD IN BOX CAR

Rutland, Vt., July 10 (AP)—The body of William Bisconnor, 65, local agent for a raincoat manufacturer, was found in a box car in the Rutland railroad yards here early today, and police believe he may have been slain.

Physicians said life had been extinct about three hours when the body was discovered at 6 a. m. Part of a strap which had been attached to a brake rod at the top of the car dangled toward the body. Another piece lay, beside it on the floor. Bisconnor's head had a bad bruise on the back, while the neck bore marks which, police said, might have been caused by strangulation.

There was no money on the body.

Deputy Fire Chief Stops Wild Horse

Deputy Fire Chief William Quigley today stopped a runaway horse on Columbus ave, near Egleston sq. The horse had been frightened when the bakery wagon to which it was harnessed was sideswiped by an auto. The driver, Alexander Saunders of 82 Saunders st., Dorchester, was unable to stop the animal, as the reins had been broken.

Police said the car, owned and operated by Benjamin Cuker of Norton st., Mattapan, struck the wagon.

SOCIETY AT NEWPORT is lending its assistance as usual to the annual flower show to be held at the Casino today. It will be under the auspices of the Newport Garden Association, headed by Mrs. Hamilton Fish Webster, and the Newport Horticultural Society. Mrs. Daniel B. Fearing, Miss M. B. Benedict, Miss Alice Brayton, Mrs. Marion Eppley, Mrs. Hubert Vos, Mrs. William F. Whitehouse, Mrs. Harold Brown, Miss Elizabeth Betton, Miss Amy Varnum, Miss Lucille R. Edgar and Mrs. Arthur Curtis James are members of the committee.

THE MAIN ATTRACTION for the summer colonists at New London has been riding above the Thames river and Long Island Sound in a hydro-airplane, which was brought there from Port Jefferson, L. I. The airship makes its headquarters at Thompson's Beach, Pequot Colony. An unexpected call was made on the plane last Sunday morning when Marcus Day, of Detroit, arrived from the western city with his wife and two children and missed the steamer for Block Island. The airplane was chartered and the Day family were landed at Block Island, about 35 miles distant, in 18 minutes.

MR. AND MRS. BRUCE HILTON BEAL have returned from their honeymoon and spent the week-end with Mrs. Beal's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Talcott of Eastern Point. The Beals are expected at their home in Brookline this week.

MR. JOHN BOWDITCH, WHO has settled in Virginia, is now with his family at West Harwich for the summer.

Prominent in North Shore Circles

MR. GEORGE D. WELLS of Boston and Mrs. Henry Lee of Old Road Farm, Beverly, exchanging greetings down on the Shore. Mrs. Lee is expected back from Canada today where she has been on a short trip with her mother, Mrs. Edward LeMoyne, New York.

Casino. Mr. Prince took down 22 of his polo ponies from his place at Pride's Crossing and has them at Oakland Farm. Polo will be one of the attractions of the season and Mr. Prince has several players as his guests.

MR. AND MRS. ARTHUR M. BEALE, of Chestnut st., are down on the Cape at their home in Barnstable for the remainder of the summer. Mrs. Beale, who has made quite a name for herself with her painting, will have an exhibition at Newport later in the season.

Larz Anderson in Canada; Will Visit Jasper National Park

MR. AND MRS. LARZ ANDERSON are on a fishing trip in Canada. They will visit Hudson, in Northwestern Ontario, one of the great fishing territories in Canada, where they will spend a week or more. They will continue on to Jasper National Park, Alberta, where they will be guests at Jasper Park Lodge for the remainder of the month.

MRS. RUSSELL S. CODMAN is chairman of the committee arranging a street fair at Magnolia on July 25, to benefit the Travelers Aid Society. Those assisting her are Mrs. Robert Stow Bradley, Mrs. George Hawley, Mrs. Alexander Steinert and Miss Susan Sturgis.

THE SNAPPY THING on the Cape now is a night club at Dennis. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sweet of New York have turned their seaside mansion into a night club de luxe, where one can go and dine, dance and swim. Or if you play contract, tables are arranged on cool piazzas. Bert Lowe's orchestra keeps "munanin' low". It is quite the smart place to go.

Miss Sylvia Weld to Be Hostess at Bar Harbor Show

MISS SYLVIA WELD, talented daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Weld, will have as guests tomorrow at the play "Enter Madame" at the Surrey Playhouse, Bar Harbor, a number of young friends from the summer colony in that vicinity. After the performance they will all go to Mr. Leighton Rollins' place, Hampur Farm, for tea. The group has been organized into a junior patroness committee for the playhouse with Miss Phyllis Bryne of New York and Bar Harbor as chairman.

AMONG THE YOUNG FOLKS who are interested in the Misses Lily Polk and Dorothy May Kinnicutt of Islesboro, Sarah Morrison Ellison, Susan Scott, Margaret Spence, Eleanor Fitzgerald and Elizabeth Kent of Bar Harbor, Eleanor Lamont and Polly Brinley of North Haven, Laura Jane Wayne, Anne Sibley and Barbara Welch of Northeast Harbor, Miss Weld, a debutante of the 1927-28 season, is one of the members of the Surrey company and plays under the name of Sylvia Ware.

Pre-School Clinics Win Praise of Bay State Federation

Pre-school clinics are assets to communities, Mrs. May Dickinson Bliss Kimball, chairman, mothercraft and child welfare department of the State Federation, maintains and to this end she will circularize the 150,000 clubwomen of the State in an attempt to secure their backing for the furtherance of the project when club activities resume in September.

Knowledge should and must be disseminated among parents that it is absolutely essential to bring up their children physically and mentally fit, she adds.

Republican Outing Is Planned

Governor Allen and Other Party Leaders to Speak at Salem Willows

By NANCY BREWSTER

Republican women from all over the State are making plans to attend an outing at Salem Willows next month and hear Governor Allen and two nationally prominent members of the party as well as Republican candidates for office.

Planned for Saturday, August 16, from 1 to 5 p. m., the event is to be held under the joint auspices of the Business and Professional Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts, the Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts and the Republican State Committee. At that time the message of the party will be sounded and the women will be instructed on their particular contribution to its success.

A central committee of which Mrs. Anna C. M. Tillinghast, New England commissioner of immigration is the chairman, has charge of the outing and included in its membership are some of the most prominent Republican women politicians of the Commonwealth. Mrs. Frank R. Batchelder, vice-chairman of the State Committee; Mrs. Emma Fall Schofield, president of the Women's Republican Club of Malden, and Miss Katherine Vose Parker, president of the Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts, are to serve as vice-chairman of the outing body.

Other workers are Representative Martha Brookings, treasurer; Mrs. Belle W. Minor, secretary; Mrs. Sadie Lipner Shulman, publicity; Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer, Mrs. W. Morton Wheeler, Mrs. Harry Brown and Mrs. Florence Le Fevre. The general committee embraces the presidents of all the women's Republican clubs in Essex, Middlesex, Suffolk, and North Worcester counties, vice-chairmen of the city and town committees in these counties and the county chairmen of the Business and Professional Women's Republican Club and the Massachusetts Women's Republican Club.

Rain or shine the outing will take place, and should the elements prove themselves antagonistic, speakers will deliver their talks in Charlesburst Hall.

Charges of Portia Causes Stir Among Folk at Convention

Most women are not out in the business world because they want to be, but because they have been "kicked out" of the home, Miss Marion W. Connelle, a modern Portia, declared at the directors' meeting of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs now convening in Chicago.

Her observation so expressed caused a furore among the delegates and like a bombshell it elicited fiery remarks and confirmations from women from all over the country.

She stated further that "chivalry has fallen into the ashcan" and that it is getting harder all the time for women to succeed.

An attorney from the not-so-far ago when feminine shingles to that effect were rare, few and far between, Miss Connole has pursued the course of law with tremendous success.

Her fiery charges were comments on a radio talk given by Mrs. Thomas A. Edison who urged women to return to home making and refrain from answering the lurid call of professional and business careers.

"And where is the woman we are to return to?" Miss Connole asked. "Moreover, for nearly every woman who is working there is some man, father, husband, son, brother or other male relative, dead or alive, who has fallen down on the job of providing for her support."

Marriage will not be hindered by this war of sexes, as she sees it. "Romance has a way of surviving," she added.

German Club Has Many Objects in Its Constitution

Objects for clubs now in the process of formation are excellently as well as fully embodied in that of the Rheinisher Woman's Club of Dusseldorf, Germany, one of the foreign organizations recently affiliate itself with the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

As translated from German into English their object is: Rooms for abods of members and for small meetings and sessions of club members; furnishing of food and drink at moderate price; the use of daily papers, magazines and complete library; placing notices on blackboard for information and requests for assistance; lectures for men and women; social meetings of members with literary, musical and artistic offerings; afternoons for encouragement of foreign speech; general walks and excursions; managing regular exhibitions of artistic and technical works and practical handiwork of members.

THE LITTLE white crepe de chine that you rely on for so many appearances during daylight has its aspect entirely altered by jacket changes. And the jacket stock need not be extensive either, for many jackets reverse these days. There is a linen one, for instance, that is yellow with white dots on one side and green with white dots on the other.

A THIN COAT with mixing abilities is of black georgette, simply made. In one of its alliances it is chic with a chiffon frock of black and red print on white. We see in it, talent for formalizing other sheer frocks.

OF COURSE the little jacket that is a component part of a silk suit is always good fashion, and makes the costume versatile and comfortable for indoors or out.

THE SUIT pictured is of white Shantung, the skirt boasting deep box pleats across the front; the jacket with cutaway front edges, and slant pockets.

IT FASTENS with three white bone buttons, which also ornament center of hip yoke; the belt buckle is fashioned of the same material. The sleeveless blouse is of organdie, its round, pleated collar delicately embroidered. The large hat is of loosely woven rough straw.

THE TAILORED suit calls for a tailored bow at the neckline of its blouse. This is one of the newest notes and a very smart accessory to the slim tailleur. Even with the dressmaker suit this flat bow of ribbon is an effective piece of chic.

Clubwomen Plan Magazine for Blind Women in State

Bay State clubwomen are asked to consider the proposition of a real woman's magazine for the blind women of Massachusetts and, when they reconvene in the fall, the body politics of the constituencies of the State Federation of Women's Clubs will vote on the recommendation.

A magazine along the lines of other popular women's editions, done in Braille, so that those women, unfortunate in their loss, may, too, keep abreast of the times in this, a woman's world. It is the plan of the division of the blind, State Department of Education, and the request has gone out to the organized club work of the State. For $1000 such a project can be made possible with a distribution of such a magazine among 500 to 1000 women for one year.

ALLIES UNITE IN WAR ON BANDITS

Shanghai, July 10 (AP)—American, British and Japanese river patrols joined today in defensive operations as bandits and communists intensified their firing on foreign vessels on the Yangtze and flaunted a banner reading "Down with imperialism, capitalism, foreigners and religion!"

Marauders continued to fire heavily at all foreign commercial or navy craft operating above Hukiang and patrols from Hankow, where steamers attempting to reach the lower river were reported to have been subjected to showers of bullets from hillsides.

Commanders of the American, Japanese and British patrols were understood to be working cooperatively regarding distribution of their ships, each patrol attempting to protect all foreigners regardless of nationality.

MOBS TERRIFY GRAPE GROWERS

San Francisco, July 10 (AP)—California's $400,000,000 grape industry faced a crisis today as the campaign to sign up the growers in a farm board relief program tottered and night riders moved through one vineyard area terrifying many owners.

Fresno County sheriff's offices reported two calls by growers asking protection from mobs attempting to force their signatures on anti-grape control board contracts.

The farm board program calls for organization of 85 per cent of growers and an advance of $21— on the approximate crop this year, estimated at 2,000,000 tons or more. The drive for signers was 80,000 acres short last night.

Today, in the real estate columns of the (Assisted) Ads, you will find scores of opportunities for profitable investment.

8 U.S. WOMEN TO MEET QUEEN

London, July 10 (AP)—Eight American girls and women spent the daylight hours today in anticipation and preparation for this evening, when they will be presented to Queen Mary, and possibly King George, in the fourth and last Buckingham Palace court of the season.

King George's presence at the court was still uncertain, since it was felt that the two-hour ordeal of standing and acknowledging presentation of hundreds of persons might bring a recurrence of the rheumatism which forced his absence from last month's court.

Among the most interested of tonight's guests will be Prince and Princess Takamatsu of Japan, who are spending part of their honeymoon in London.

The American presentees are Miss Helen L. Washington of Washington, D. C., Miss Justine Townsend of New York, Miss Elizabeth Wurts of Philadelphia, Mrs. Roy Baker of Washington, D. STEPDAUGHTERS of WAR by HELEN ZENNA SMITH

Tosh Is Killed by Splinter From Bomb

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

One convoy of wounded after another is the lot of the women ambulance corps of which Helen Smith is a member. Commandant whom Tosh has christened "Mrs Itch," is a hard task-master Strenuous work, little sleep and poor food show on the girls When Smithy's mother writes pooh-ing her silly war views, "Smithy," picturing the war-ravaged men, revolts. But letters from her war-nurse sister, Trix, are treats Deaths are numerous and heart-rending. "Mrs. Itch" questions the girls regarding Tosh's and Skinny's argument, which led to a fight. Skinny is sent home Girls visit German prisoners and are shocked at their language.

CHAPTER 25

Ploo-oop. Crash!

Surely there is no sound anywhere as sickening as the sound of a bomb dropped from the air. A flattening sound as though the sky were jealous of the earth and was determined to wipe it out of existence Each time a bomb drops I see myself under it, flat, like the skin of a dead tiger that has been made into a rug with a little nicked half-inch of cloth all round the edges—flat, all the flesh and blood and bones knocked flat—useless to tell me I would be wiped clean out of existence as though I had never been—I still see myself like the skin of the dead tiger that has been made into a rug with a little nicked half-inch of cloth round the edges—

Ploo-oop. Crash!

I laugh. The sitter tells me I have pluck, laughing like that. He's got four girls himself, the youngest 4, the eldest 12. He would rather have daughters than sons. Fine girls every one of them. His missus makes every stitch they wear, oh, a good woman and a better wife his missus—

Number Four, Number Four, NUMBER FOUR.

Getting Nearer
Bombing Ambulances

All the time they unload me the bombs are getting nearer. Silence except for the bombs. Nearer every time. Not so many now. All beaten back but one machine, a nurse says. I look up. One solitary plane. Sisters and stretcher-bearers whispering, hastily removing the wounded inside so that thin, inadequate shelter of canvas, none of them afraid like me, coward, coward, coward, waiting to be flattened into the skin of a dead tiger that has been made into a rug with a little nicked edging of cloth—

"Right."

Off again.

The bomber is nearly overhead. I can see the bombs leave the carrier. What an age it is dropping. I am out on the road. Half a mile ahead is another ambulance travelling at top speed towards the station From Number One. Who is it? Commandant, of course. She always takes Number One. Yes, it is sure to be Commandant. All this I think while the bomb is dropping.

Ploo-oop. Crash!

That was near. Behind me, a few fields away. The next one will get me—the sitter said it would be a miracle if a bomb hit a moving ambulance—but the next one will get me—it cannot help it—they are dropped at regular intervals according to the speed the aviator is travelling—he is right over my head—his engine is drowning the sound of mine—he'll get me, he'll get me, he doesn't know me, he doesn't know me—he has no personal grudge against me—it doesn't seem fair to him to flatten me into a tiger skin with a little neat half inch of nicked cloth round the edges—

Must Get Away
Smithy Drives Fast

I tear along—I must get away, I must get away before he drops the next bomb on me—Commandant is ahead—I am gaining on her—if he must flatten out someone let it be Commandant —Oh, God, if there is a God, let the next bomb drop on the ambulance ahead—let it be Commandant—don't let it be me—don't let it be me—

Ploo-oop. Crash!

A flash of flame. My ears are deafened but he has missed me —he has missed me—

Oh, God, something has happened to the dark blob that was

Chamber Wars on New Freight Rates

N. E. WILL PAY $9,157,572 MORE A YEAR

W. H. Day Studies New Charges Preparatory to Appeal to I. C. C. as Unfair

New England manufacturers and shippers, aroused by the increase of freight rates granted to the railroads, were hopeful today that they might appeal to the Interstate Commerce Commission for relief.

W. H. Day, head of the transportation bureau of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, was today making a study of the rate commission's report preparatory to taking action toward that end.

Only the fruit and vegetables of New England would escape the heavy burden of additional freight charges, said Mr. Day.

"It is a gift from heaven to the railroads of the country."

He declared that the New England railroads would share a large percentage of $9,157,572 additional revenue annually which will be paid by New England manufacturers. This amount was estimated.

The foregoing figures Day pointed out, do not include payments of freight charges of New England shipments via Canada or by water routes.

ENDS LONG BATTLE

"I have been fighting this proposed increase every step of the way for three years," Day said. "Only a year ago I prophesied that this increase would be granted.

"In territory east of the Mississippi, north of the Ohio and Potomac rivers and south of the Canadian line to the Atlantic ocean, the official fixed classification territory, manufacturers and shippers will be assessed over $50,000,000. That is a conservative estimate.

"We have not lost hope, however, of an appeal to the Interstate Commerce Commission. I am studying this rate increase report now and I shall make a report of my findings to all New England manufacturers, and I am sure that all will prepare the necessary appeal for prosecution before the rate commission in Washington.

MAY BE LOOPHOLE

"Manufacturers located in the Middle West have an unfair advantage over the New England shippers because of the charges on the mileage basis. Under the proposed increase it will cost two cents more per hundred pounds to ship goods from Boston to Chicago than from New York to Chicago.

"I believe, however, that on account of the different routes through Canada there exists a loophole which will justify carriers serving New England insisting on the same basis of rates on goods westbound from New England as applies from New York, and it will be the purpose of the Chamber of Commerce to start something immediately with the hope of bringing about the result.

"Other situations are now being carefully analyzed and wherever there is evidence of unfair or unwarranted treatment of New England it will be the chamber's preference to fight to the limit of its ability to receive assurance of a fair deal for New England."

CANDLE LEADS POLICE TO BODY

Ancient Custom Is Resorted to in Search for South Boston Victim

Harbor police late yesterday were aided by a loaf of bread bearing an unlighted candle, which had been placed in the water off Peddock's Island in accordance with an ancient religious custom, in recovering the body of Benjamin Wolfe, 23, of 278 West Fifth st., South Boston.

Wolfe was drowned Sunday when the tender of the motor launch Petrel in which he and two others were going to shore capsized.

John Wolfe, brother, and John Connolly, 20, of 413 West Fourth st., a friend who dove several times from the motor launch after the accident Sunday, in fruitless attempts to recover the body, were looking on when the body was recovered. John Wolfe, carrying out the instructions of his mother, had placed the loaf with a candle on a piece of board and allowed it to float in the water.

It floated around in the water haphazardly for some time, according to witnesses, and finally stopped at a point in the water about 150 feet from the shore. Shortly after it stopped, Lieut. Lawrence H. Dunn and the crew in the police launch Argos, who had been grappling unsuccessfully for hours, recovered the body tangled in the eel grass about 10 feet away from the bread.

19 ALIENS LOSE CITY JOBS

The campaign to have aliens employed by contractors on city work replaced by citizens of Boston bore fruit yesterday when 19 young Irishmen employed on a job in Blue Hill ave., Dorchester, lost their jobs.

In view of the fact that 40 men on the job were due for a layoff, the firing of the 19 alien Irishmen did not produce jobs for citizens.

John J. Shields, director of the employment bureau, reported that the 19 men had been employed by Matthew Geddis and had told Mr. Geddis that they were citizens. Failure to show naturalization papers resulted in the discharge.

Under the law men employed on city contract work must be citizens.

$100 Weekly for News Tips

Do you want to get money for being alert? If so, the Boston American offers the opportunity. Every week $100 in prizes will be given for news tips telephoned in to the News-Tip Editor, at Liberty 4000.

And what is a news tip? It's the information that something of interest to Greater Bostonians has taken place or will take place. Do you know, for instance, that an interesting picture is to be obtained, that an accident has happened, that there is going to be a business merger? That's a news tip.

There will be $25 given weekly for the best, first exclusive news tip received, $15 for the next best, $10 for the next best and $2 prizes for each of the 25 next most valuable tips. Anyone who is alive and alert can win.

BIRTH CONTROL finds no supporter in Mrs. Beatrice Denouime of 72 South Huntington ave., who has a husky family of six children although she is only 26. Mrs. Denouime, who also believes in keeping young with her children, declares she is happiest when surrounded by her "gang." She prays she will have many more. The children are, Jeannette, 3; Aurore, 8; Billy, 6; Alfred, 5; Joseph, Jr., 4, and Lindy, 2. (Staff photo.)

Mother, 26, Has Brood of 6, Hopes for More

One never knows what comes in the mail!

For instance, the boys in gray were responsible for a champion in Jamaica Plain, it was revealed today: a champion mother at the age of 26.

She is Mrs. Beatrice Denouime, mother of six huskies at her tender age and praying for more to bless the little home at 72 S. Huntington ave.

Her husband is a mechanic at the Brookline Country Club, struggling along on a wage, and just as anxious for more little ones in the household as his girlish-looking wife. During the war they met. They met by mail and corresponded 3000 miles apart before the actual meeting came on Labor Day, 1918.

Through a girl friend—and in keeping with the slogan of the day to write to the soldier boys—the couple were introduced through photographs enclosed in letters.

He was at Fort Bliss, Texas, and the then Beatrice Gordon was in Lowell, to where she moved from her birthplace, Exeter, N. H. She had never met the soldier of the mail before, even though he lived with his folks at 28 Howard st., Lowell, before his call to the colors. On his transfer to Honolulu, the pair pursued correspondence.

Labor Day after the war saw his return and their first meeting.

"His wages are fair; enough to get along on," the young wife said today. "We don't worry so much about things as long as our children are well and God will bless us with more," she added.

"When Jeanette was born I was the proudest little mother on Earth, and I've felt that way with the birth of all six."

The other children are Aurore, eight; William, six; Alfred, five; Joseph, Jr., four, and Lindy, two, the latter born only a month after Col Lindbergh made his celebrated flight to Paris.

"Housework doesn't bother much, the older children can help and we clean up quick to get to Jamaica Park and the sunshine. Some day I hope to have enough for a ball team. They play ball with me now at the playground and get a great kick out of it.

"My one ambition is to have Lindy's namesake follow his footsteps in aviation."

Denouime was paid the highest of compliments by his wife, that of an ideal husband who dashes right home to his flock after a hard day's work to romp with the children.

FOUR-DAY WEEK FOR 600 EL MEN

More than 600 employes of the Elevated car shops face a four-day week, it was announced today by trustees of the road, as result of a $500,000 loss in revenue reported during the last five months.

The new order will go into effect next week, cutting the men a day and a half each instead of laying off any sizeable number outright.

The loss was incurred on the surface lines, the rapid transit systems being on a paying basis, experts reported.

It was said Boston suffered a much smaller loss than many cities, a drop in revenue of 2 per cent over the same period last year, while other cities showed losses as high as 14 per cent.

Inhalator Used to Save Doctor

Ill since Saturday, an inhalator was used on Dr Herbert E Fernald of North Main st., Cohasset, well known physician of that town, when he was seized with a violent attack of hiccoughs yesterday.

Last night Dr. Fernald's condition was reported as somewhat improved, although the hiccoughs had not stopped.

Early in the spring the life of another physician, Dr. Walter E. Sturgis of Hull was saved by use of an inhalator when he was similarly seized with an attack of hiccoughs during an illness.

Two Painters Hurt as Staging Drops

Two painters were seriously injured yesterday when a gutter to which their staging was attached collapsed and they fell 20 feet to the ground. The two men, Richard Bourns of 17 Reed ct., Roxbury, and William Greer, 124 Day st., Jamaica Plain, were painting a house at 18 Wakullah st., Roxbury.

At the City Hospital Bourns was found to have sustained a possible fracture of the pelvis. Greer received a possible fracture of the skull, a concussion of the brain and other minor injuries.

ROUTED FROM BED WHEN TRACED BY HIS CAR

Charged With Leaving Scene of Collision Where Milk Driver Is Killed

Awakened at the home of his wife's parents in Barrett ct., Lynn, Richard Tusom, 29, Boston College and Harvard graduate and Boston University instructor, was arrested today charged with manslaughter, going away after injuring a person and driving so as to endanger the public.

The arrest resulted from the death [illegible] of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Donnally of 7 Maple pl., Lynn, who was killed when the milk wagon on which he was riding was demolished by an automobile.

In Lynn court he pleaded not guilty and was held in bonds of $1000 for a hearing August 4.

According to the police Edward Donnally of 46 Everett st., Lynn, helped put Donnally into Tusom's car in which he was taken to Lynn hospital.

Donnally was pronounced dead but when police sought Tusom he was not around.

An hour later Patrolman John McLaughlin saw an auto with the front battered, being driven up North Common st., Lynn. The machine was Tusom's and was operated by his brother-in-law, Edward Legere of Barrett ct., at whose home Tusom was found in bed.

Police say that Tusom was returning from a Saturday night party where he has been playing in an orchestra. The milk wagon was struck on Broadway, Lynn. It was Donnally's first day of employment by a local milk company.

In 1928 Tusom was involved in a fatal auto 'accident when a car toppled over a bank in Lynn Woods, killing Richard Cheever of Nahant, a passenger Tusom was not prosecuted at that time.

Christian Union Meets in Boston

The selection of a new missionary program and the adoption of a new constitution are matters that will be discussed by the Young People's Christian Union of the Universalist Church, which opened its 42nd national annual convention at the Church of the Redemption on Ipswich st. last night.

The Rev Dorothy Tilden Spoerl, of Orono, Me., president of the organization, made this plain in the annual address, which also brought out the fact that the activities of the union have been put on a firm financial basis in the last year.

Mattapan Girl, 5, Saved From Attacker

Mattapan police combed the vicinity of Franklin Park, yesterday for a man who is alleged to have attempted an attack upon a five-year-old Mattapan girl.

The little girl was playing on her front porch, according to her father, when approached by a stranger man who attempted to lure her into the cellar of the house. The child's screams aroused her parents.

$25 Bonfire

An aftermath of the July 4 celebration took place in the Waltham District Court yesterday when John Ferro, 16, of Pine st., was fined $25 after he was caught in the act of setting a street bonfire on the "night before."

Bay State Soldiers Show Their Skill at Devens

BUSY DAYS AT CAMP DEVENS, where Massachusetts National Guard troops gather for their annual tour. Hundreds of boys are encamped in the Citizens Military Training Camp, and the Reserve Officers Training Corps is on the job. Here you see before the colors men of the R. O. T. C. at present-arms, as the retreat maneuvers are carried on. At the left of the picture the camp band is playing "The Star Spangled Banner." At the right, Lieut.-Col. R. L. Moseley, Camp Devens staff officer, is chatting with Col. Frederick G. Knabenshue, camp commander in charge of the C. M. T. C. activities.

FULL PROGRAM DAILY AT CAMP

By Al Whelton

Picture a wide open yawning mouth a pair of sleepy eyes, a tousled head poked out from a blanket into the cold of early morning when the clock hands point to 5:30 a. m.

With this photographed on your mind you see the start of another day at the Citizens Military Training Camp at Camp Devens; another day of thrills and experience for 880 eager youths of New England.

Two minutes before the camp was still, save for the clanging of pans in the kitchen [illegible] kitchen police prepared a full hungry stomachs.

THEN THAT BUGLE

A minute before, peace and contentment reigned in the six companies.

Then the notes of the bugle, the notes of that unpopular gent who stands on yonder hill and tells the military, "You golfers get up."

Jimmy, Fred, Oliver and Percy, Harold, Mike and Shorty; all up and out.

No better proof [illegible] all men are [illegible]

It's reveille [illegible] that reaches [illegible] roll leggins, [illegible]

It's camp [illegible] young lives that never will be forgotten.

This is the picture of the start. The rest of the day is as full of action and events. Col. Frederick G. Knabenshue is a line officer in the army and believes that busy hands stay out of mischief.

THEY PLAY, TOO

Yet, his program is not one of all work. He is a firm believer in recreation when it's not enough recreation when it's enough periods to suit.

Breakfast [illegible] go through the [illegible] drill; they learn the fundamentals of army life and a [illegible] program is completed every [illegible] sprinkled, turning out bright, obedient lads at the end of 30 days.

Afternoon—and there isn't a boy who doesn't crane his neck toward the roadway for visitors.

Here a group of future Babe Ruths are doing their stuff, another group cheers or jeers their fellows in the contortions of a strenuous wrestling match.

K. P.'S THE JOB

Another group spars each man taking his turn at the [illegible] and the kitchen police look with envious eyes as the [illegible] the evening meal.

"And Freddie! Did you see him stirring that big tub of cocoa?" a mother is heard to say after she stole a glance at her son on K. P.

"If I asked him to do that at home—well, I wouldn't dare ask him, that's all."

The little family group smiles and passes on to wait the end of the soldier son's duties.

Another boy lies asleep on his bunk. "Bunk fatigue," they call it in the army, the [illegible] a synonym for detail. It's a restful sleep.

Then the rush for the showers, sweating, hilarious boys.

They prepare for another thrill of the day—evening retreat.

They must be cleaned up, dressed up and full of business. That's discipline and a more serious mien is never seen on any set of peppy boys as the solemn ceremony is carried off on the evening breeze, proper respect is paid the flag and the official day is over.

There's no urging needed to produce slumber.

It's been an eventful day—just as all the 30 are. And the cool night air sweeps through the barracks as the slow notes of the bugler tapers off in "Taps" for the end of another day.

Bigelow Warns of Dog Bites and Rabies

There is to be two platforms 300 feet long with a main entrance under the circle of the elevated structure at Charles, Cambridge, West Boylston st. and Embankment. A [illegible] speakstalk under the street for the convenience of persons going to the Massachusetts General Hospital or the Suffolk County Jail is called for.

MAYNARD GIRL SOUGHT HERE

Boston is being searched for Clara M. Hale, 15, of 84 Summer st., Maynard, former New Jersey state ward, who has been missing from the home of her guardian since July 3.

She was last seen on a truck in Sudbury which was Boston bound.

Shortly before her departure the girl received a letter from a former school chum which stated that the girl was in Boston. It is believed that she came here to visit her chum.

The girl is 5 feet 3 inches in height, weighs 132 pounds, light complexion, with bobbed curly hair.

When she left home she wore a green khaki sleeveless blouse and skirt to match, white silk stockings and black patent leather pumps.

Johnson Picks Cobb as Greatest Ball Star

Boston baseball fans learned today why the Washington Senators are leading in the American league race from the lips of Manager Walter Johnson himself.

The Senators' pilot, the greatest pitcher and most popular figure in the history of the game, explained the miracle and answered a series of questions of interest to all baseball lovers in an interview with Joe Cashman, American sports writer in the Boston Evening American's studio of station WHDH.

"Big Barney" was in great shape and fine voice. He shot out answers to all queries as fast as he ever tossed the old agate over the plate in his prime.

ALL WORKING WELL.

"Pitching and pep," said Walter, "is responsible for the success of my club this year. All my hurlers are pitching wonderful ball and the entire club has the winning spirit. That's why we are leading.

"Last year," he continued, "the hurlers were not in shape at the start and were massacred by the heavy-hitting Philadelphia and New York clubs in early season. That caused our club to be outdistanced at the start and it was never able to catch up.

"Do you expect the Senators to win out this year?" he was asked by Cashman.

"I most certainly do," was his reply. "Both the Athletics and Yanks are sure to give us a battle, but I am confident that my boys, the best crowd I have ever been associated with during my 24 years in the big leagues, will pull through on top."

Walter also told who, in his opinion, are the greatest players and manager.

He named Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington club and his present boss, as the best pilot of them all.

COBB THE GREATEST

Ty Cobb was his choice as the greatest all-around player of all time and Al Simmons of the Athletics as the best all-around performer in the game today.

He said that his club had several great pitchers and that the Red Sox had a wonder in "Mike" Gaston, but that if he had his choice of any flinger today, he would select Ted Lyons, of the Chicago White Sox.

His biggest disappointment, he said over the air, was losing the first game of the 1924 World Series classic after waiting so long to get in the series, and his biggest thrill was hurling the last four innings of the final game and holding the New York Giants until his mates banged out a run to give Washington its first world championship.

He explained the difference between the game and players of today and a quarter of a century ago, and in conclusion told the youngsters of Greater Boston what rules to follow if they had big league ambitions.

ROB DONAHUE NEWCOMB THOMPSON WALTER JOHNSON

Walter Johnson, mound star of other years and now the manager of the league-leading Senators, burned over plenty of fast baseball dope for fans of Greater Boston when he was interviewed by Joe Cashman, Boston American sports writer, today. The microphone played the part of the batter during the interview, while Newcomb Thompson and Bob Donahue of the American radio staff played the part of backstops. (Staff photo.)

The general order, which went into effect today, is dated June 8, so that they will receive pay from that time.

Capt. Albert J. McMahon is assigned to command Engine 6 at Teele sq. and Capt. James H O'Hara is placed in charge of the Union av. fire station. The new lieutenants assigned are Hoseman Louis J. Larkin of Engine 2, to be lieutenant at Engine 8, Teele sq., and Hoseman Edward G. Murray of Engine 1, Central fire station, to be lieutenant at Engine 3, Union sq.

The following new men are assigned to duty as of June 8: Jeremiah Sullivan to Engine 1, David L. Mahood, Jr., to Engine 2 and Richard J. Joyce to Engine 3

Of the new captains James H O'Hara is the youngest in the department, being a veteran of the World War and was commended by Rear Admiral Philip Andrews for meritorious work in foreign service during the war. He was born May 17, 1895, and appointed to the department on February 16, 1920, and assigned to Engine 1. Later he acted as aide to the district chief and was promoted to lieutenant on December 27, 1927. He was promoted to captain in June. Capt. Albert J. McMahon has been a member of the department since April 26, 1915, when he was assigned to Ladder 3. High in the leafy top of a lofty elm at the Old Granary burying ground on Tremont st, a gray and white cat climbed last night in search of a feathered meal

BUS MEN GIVEN SMALL HOPE OF CURB ON RIVALS

Tell State Commission Private Cars May Force Some Suspensions

Bus men and jitney operators today complained bitterly against the ever-growing practice by private car owners of carrying neighbors back and forth to work daily for a consideration lower than the fares charged by regular vehicles of transportation at a hearing before the public utilities commission

They told the commission that unless they are given some protection against these private car owners the number of riders will be so diminished that they will be forced to abandon some of their lines

Incidentally, the same complaint was registered several years ago by the trolley companies when the jitneys and buses commenced taking business and making serious inroads into the street railway revenues

Among the complainants were Joseph Lovell owner of the largest bus companies in the State Day Baker, counsel for the Motor Coach and Bus Ass'n of New England, and J. J. Hourin, representing the Boston Worcester & New York St Railway Co

It was charged that in Boston and other large cities, taxis are also out for regular daily business transporting people to and fro when "they are supposed to be engaged in regular taxi business only."

Lewis Golberg, member of the commission, commented that if the owner of the private auto does not seek the business from the general public, but merely limits his operation to that of carrying the same people, there is some question as to whether any legislation could be framed that would be constitutional

VITALITY!

"SURE! I can finish that today"

A strong, healthy body and mind always respond to the occasion. Employers appreciate and recognize unfailing freshness—always ready—cheerfully ready to carry on—minus that "tired feeling."

DON'T let a weakened body hold you back. Prolonged, it may result in so-called premature old age. Today's happiness and friends may be gone tomorrow. Has it ever been made clear to you that a strong, healthy body depends upon the right number of rich, red-blood-cells?

Thousands of people have a low blood count—to this may be attributed skin troubles, "run-down" systems and even more serious ailments.

Healthy blood should contain about 5,000,000 red corpuscles to every cubic millimeter—those tiny workers which give blood its color and are carriers of nourishment to every part of the body. Rich, red blood is the body's protector against infection and disease. It is dangerous to let the blood count remain below normal.

If you tire easily—lack pep—if your skin is not clear—if your appetite is "gone"—you owe it to yourself and friends to try S.S.S.

When you get your red-blood-cells back up to normal, that sluggish, let-down feeling, lack of appetite, skin troubles disappear. You should get hungry again and sleep soundly; firm flesh should take the place of that which was once flabby. You should feel strong. Your nerves become steady.

S.S.S. helps Nature build rich, red blood. It improves the processes by which the body is nourished.

For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been helping people regain and retain their strength and charm. Thousand of users have testified to its benefits in unsolicited letters of gratitude. Many have found it beneficial to take a few bottles at least once a year to keep their blood in good condition.

S.S.S. is made from strictly fresh vegetable drugs and is easily assimilated. All drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

Hodder and Morse Lose at Winchester

FAVORITES BEATEN IN 4-BALL

By BILL GRIMES

With one exception, the favorites came through in the first round of match play of the annual Winchester Country Club Four-Ball Invitation this morning

The exception was the defeat of Clark Hodder and Ken Morse by Clarence Cochrane and C. F. Berthel Hodder and Morse were one up with four to play but the Bellevue team came through winning three consecutive holes and the match, 2 to 1.

Bill Grimes

Art Ross and Bobby Hutton gave Jimmy Baldwin and Johnny Merwin, who were the medalists of the qualifying round yesterday, a great battle for 13 holes. Ross and Hutton matched strokes with the Concord team and were only one down going to the 12th but they finally went out on the short end of a 4 and 3 match.

Grasse-Healey Team Beat Bond and Fisher

Clarke Grasse and Jack Healey of Lowell turned in a 6 and 5 victory over A. M. Bond and E. M. Fisher. The feature of this match was the long hitting of Healey, who is rated with the best long-distance drivers in the game

At the 13th hole Healey was not only over the green with his second, a number five iron shot, but he was out of bounds, hitherto an unheard of feat at Winchester.

Chet Rich and Frank Hersey of Wellesley had little trouble eliminating R. A. Breed and B. M. Shores of Oasley, winning by 3 to 2 to play.

Edmund Eaton and Richard Lincoln put up a fine battle against Bill Donnell, the junior champion of the state and Gerry Moore.

Dick Lincoln was out in 36 with his own ball with two 3-putt greens, but the Woodland pair started a sprint coming home and took a 4 and 2 verdict, due to a stretch of seven holes during which they were under two fours.

Eddie Murphy of the Harvard team and Henri Bourneuf had a close call with Jack Eaton and R. Boyd of Bear Hill. The match went to the 19th hole before the Charles River pair were declared winners. Eaton and Boyd were five down with eight to play, but there were one up going to the 17th which Boyd lost by 3 putting it. After they had halved the 18th Murphy won the 19th and the match with a four

A 4—4—4 finish by Ben Partridge brought about the downfall of Eddie Barton and Sam Hicks.

Elmer Ward and Eddie Maher came through with a 6 and 5 victory over Frank Whitcomb and Ike Wilking of Belmont Springs.

The second round, which is being played this afternoon, brings together Baldwin and Merwin against Grasse and Healey; Rich and Hersey vs. Donnelly and Moore, Murphy and Bourneuf vs. Partridge and Ainsley, and Ward and Maher against Cochrane and Berthel.

SUMMARY

James B. Baldwin and John Merwin defeated Art Ross and Bobby Hutton, 6 and 5.

C. B. A. Grasse and J. J. Healey defeated A. M. Bond and E. M. Fisher, 6 and 5

C. F. Rich and S. F. Hersey defeated R. A. Breed and B. M. Shores, 7 and 6.

W. H. Donnelly, Jr., and Gerard Moore defeated Robert and Richard Lincoln, 6 and 5.

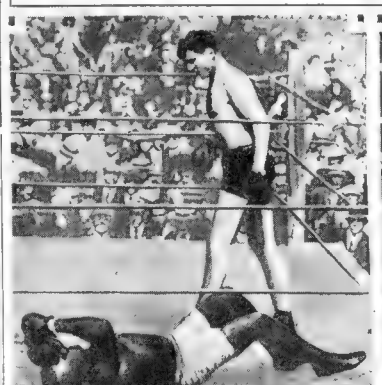
J. E. Murphy and Henri Bourneuf defeated C. E. Eaton and E. B. Boyd, 1 up, 19 holes.

B. W. Partridge and R. G. Ainsley defeated C. T. Barton and F. F. Hicks, 7 and 6.

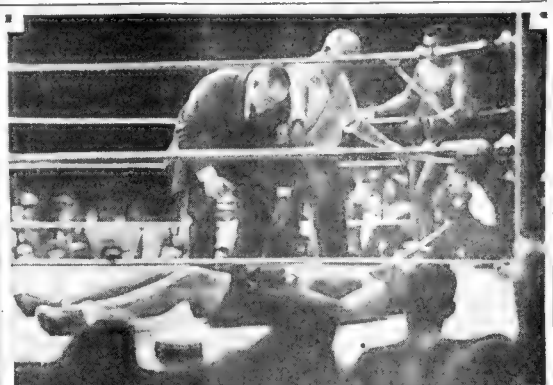
Elmer Ward and Edward Maher defeated F. E. Whitcomb and A. G. Wilking, 6 and 5.

Clarence Cochrane and C. V. Berthel defeated Clark Hodder and Kenneth Morse, 2 and 1

OLDTIMERS DIDN'T WIN BOUTS WHILE ON THEIR BACKS



JACK JOHNSON is flat on his back being counted out in his title bout with Jess Willard at Havana, Cuba. The gigantic Willard is on his feet and winning by a knockout, as a champion should. It was not until recently that champions won on fouls. The oldtimers won, or lost, fighting.



NOWADAYS RING WINNERS require the assistance of a flock of stretcher bearers to carry them to their corners after a bout. Take a peek at the gigantic Primo Carnera as he lay on his back claiming foul in the fifth round of his recent bout with George Godfrey, Negro heavyweight.

Diamond Pick-Ups

The shower, which halted the first game between the Sox and Senators was heavy and brief. The sun was shining 15 minutes after the rain halted, but the field was in such terrible shape that it was more than an hour before the contest could be resumed.

Yet nobody in the surprisingly large audience of more than 12,000 cared if the game ever started again, so funny were Nick Altrock and Al Schacht during the intermission.

The famous comedians did all their old stuff and a lot of new stunts and were never funnier. The gang got a great kick out of their burlesque on the umpires. As ridiculous as they were, they were no more so than some of the arbiters that have been at the Fens of late And nothing funnier than their fight has ever been seen on stage o screen

Heinie Manush, star Washington left fielder, strained his side rounding first in the sixth inning of the first game and had to retire in favor of George Loepp, who was turned down by the Sox at the start of last season. It is feared that Manush will be out for at least two weeks. It's a tough blow to the Senators, as there are few better players on the team.

The rain must have had something to do with Jack Russell's collapse in the sixth, for he was never in danger before the drops started to fall and resumed work by fanning Fothergill. It was just another of the many touch breaks the Sox have suffered when opposed by the Senators this season

Joe Judge, Sam Rice and Sam Jones have all been playing major league ball more than a dozen years and each is as good today as he ever was.

When Scarritt counted for the Red Sox in the seventh, it was the first run scored off Sam Jones in 16 innings.

Jones got that run right back in the eighth when he came through with a perfect bunt to squeeze Bluege home.

And, after Pinch Hitter Charlie Small found him for a double at the start of the eighth, he fanned Oliver, Todt and Scarritt, in order.

Jack Rothrock made his first appearance in a game since April 18, when he went up to bat in the ninth inning of the opener. He rolled out to Judge.

Otis Miller, after hitting in hard luck for several days, found the range in the twin bill and came through with two doubles and three singles in eight trips to the platter

Charlie Berry, though, was the hitting hero of the nightcap, making four in a row without being put out once

It's unusual for an outfielder to throw out one runner a month these days, yet Sammy West threw out both Miller and Oliver in the second game, which partly accounts for the Sox getting but five runs on 17 hits.

Kelley Denies He Aided Max

Harry Kelley, trainer of boxers and part owner of a Boston gym, today issued a statement in which he branded as untrue New York newspaper stories to the effect he had helped prepare Max Schmeling for the latter's bout with Jack Sharkey.

Harry Kelley

Kelley was formerly Sharkey's trainer. He also worked with Jim Maloney when the latter first started boxing as a pro.

"Even though I am not with Sharkey's camp now," said Kelley, "I would not give any assistance to anybody who is battling Jack. I like Sharkey and wish him all the success possible."

HUB TWI LEAGUE TEAMS TILT

The Hopedales of Allston are still very much in the race for Hub Twi League honors, and will strive to climb a step nearer the top this evening when they entertain the strong Jamaica Plain Board of Trade team at Smith Field, North Brighton

CHAMP IN CYCLE RACE AT REVERE

Franco Georgetti, American motor pace champion who won the 35-mile motor-paced race at the Revere cycle track last week, yesterday was signed by Nat Butler to compete in the 40-mile event this coming Saturday.

Georgetti will ride against George Chapman, Frankie Keenan, Vic Hopkins, Iowa plow boy, a former American champion, and Paul Brocardo, an Italian-American, a newcomer to Revere.

Brocardo gained fame with Al Letournier, the Frenchman, when the two teamed up together in the New York six-day race. They were known as the Red Devils and flew away from every team in the race.

The amateurs will be back again Saturday night in a 10-mile motor-paced race. Those picked to ride are Anthony Bernard, Al Keith, Peter Callas and Joe McGinn. Other races are also listed for amateurs and pros

Lexington Nine in Game With Yankees

The Lexington Minute Boys' baseball team has a twilight game scheduled for tonight with the Concord Yankees on the Lexington Center playground diamond at 6:15 o'clock.

Notes of the Sandlots

With Justin "Lefty" McLaughlin pitching good ball for the Hopedales, it won't be long before this Allston ball club makes a bid for first place in the Hub Twilight League.

Lefty is the young man who had a sensational season with Brighton high this year, losing only to Lefty Tamulis and the Eng. sh high out fit

Joe Ryder, who was at Brighton high a few years ago and then at Kent's Hill school, is also with the Hopedales and doing some heavy clouting. Ryder was the cleanup batter on the B. C. freshman team last spring and was the Babe Ruth of the Eagle yearlings.

One of the best players in the Cape Cod League, as well as one of the youngest is Frank DeMitte the former Newton high and Wentworth Institute giant. DeMitte is built along the lines of a skyscraper and makes an ideal first sacker The college that gets him won't have to worry about the initial sack

The Dorchester Twilight team has three of the best young pitchers in semi-pro baseball and there's every reason to believe that the Town Field nine will be up there before long

Dorchester has Coombs and Sims pitching and recently signed Andy Mullaney who was burning up the New England League before that circuit folded up.

Malden possesses two more of the most promising pitchers in the local after-supper loop in Bobby Fredericks and Fred Loftus. Sims and Fredericks were teammates at Holy Cross

Dicky Harrell, who used to be a hero at Dorchester Town Field and then at Holy Cross, is now playing for Canton, O. Canton is owned and managed by Heinie Groh, the bottle-bat buster Groh also plays third base on his team with Harrell at second

STARS TO PLAY AT LONGWOOD

On top of the 16 entries accepted 34 more came in on Richard Bishop, chairman of the Longwood Bowl tennis tourney that starts at Longwood on Monday

The limit for the tourney is 64 players, and with two more days to go it seems that the field finally selected will include the best of the big American players

This year's tourney has a special interest in that it gives the younger players a chance to prove their ability without the possibility of being retired in the early rounds by such men as John Doeg, last year's winner.

JACK CONWAY TELLS HOW PUBLIC IS MILKED BY "NO CONTEST" DECISIONS

By JACK CONWAY

"The New Champion!"

When Joe Humphries or some equally famous announcer shouted this statement from the ring in the days when fighters were FIGHTERS, the title holder usually stood over the man he had knocked cold. He at least had won the decision and was on his feet when the final blow was delivered.

Nowadays the cry "The New Champion" is the signal for men who could have made good stretcher-bearers to hop through the ropes and pick up the "champion" from the floor and lug him to his corner.

The style set by "champions" has been followed by lesser stars.

MANAGERS TO BLAME

The average boxer will not set up a claim of foul. This practice has been the work of the smart young men who manage some of our leading ring men. They figure that their chief job is to win the decision regardless of how they accomplish this result.

The boxing game received two of its hardest blows when the Sharkey-Schmeling and Carnera-Godfrey battles ended in fouls. In each case the "victor" ended upon the floor and was lugged to his corner.

Shades of Jack Dempsey! All the old Tiger asked was that the referee stand back and let him fight!

Dempsey never set up a claim of foul no matter where he was hit.

"I can take care of myself in the ring," Dempsey once told me. "All I ask is the right to let my punches fly. I don't care where the other fellow hits me. I'll keep him going back under a barrage of

N. B. A. Lifts Mickey Walker's Suspension

Louisville, Ky., July 10 (AP)—Announcement that the suspension of Mickey Walker by the National Boxing Association had been lifted was made here today by Karl Nelson, secretary of the Kentucky State Athletic Commission and secretary of the N. B. A. suspensions committee.

Walker, middleweight champion, was suspended last summer on the grounds that he did not defend his title within a reasonable length of time. He had been permitted to box in several cities, but not in a title contest.

Bobby Jones Leads Field in Open With Brilliant 71

SMITH CLOSE ON HEELS OF GOLF KING

score that gave him a one-stroke margin over the young professional ace. Both had 72 put him in temporary second place with Harry Cooper of Chicago, and George Smith, another Chicago professional.

Although dripping wet from perspiration, Jones seemed to play better as the heat became more intense. A few "breaks" on the green where at least a half dozen putts missed going down by inches would have put the champion well down in the sixties for his round.

There was keen excitement as Horton Smith and Jones each out in 34, two under par, battled stroke for stroke on the incoming journey.

Hobby lost a stroke to Smith and par on the 10th, when his second shot, found a trap for his only serious error of the round. He was still a stroke behind Smith with two holes to go, but on each of these Horton lost a stroke. He finished 4—5 to Bobby's 3—4.

Attacks on Jones' Mark Fall Short

With the half way mark reached, attacks on the mark set up by Jones were failing considerably short. Don Moe, of Portland, Oregon, Western amateur champion, started brilliantly with 35, but finished in 40 for a total of 75. Two other amateurs, George Von Elm and the burly British star, Cyril Lolley, each required 80 and were out of the running at the start. It was one of the poorest exhibitions Von Elm had given in the open championship as he needed 42 for the homeward nine

Among those at 73, two strokes behind Jones, were Eddie Williams of Cleveland, Irvin Ottman of Louisville, and Jack Forrest of New York. A well-hit in the "dark horse" class. At 74 were Johnny Golden, Jack Burke and Willie MacFarlane Wild Bill Meihhorn had a 76.

Jones' tee shot on the fifth was 10 feet from the pin, but his putt was six inches short of it as he missed a fine chance for another birdie.

Bobby's tee shot bounced into the rough on the 343-yard sixth, but he came out brilliantly to the green. Ferrulion poured down his face as he elbowed his way through the crowd that was cheering his recovery. Again he putted short, by two feet, but got his par 4.

Misses Birdie on 7th Hole by Poor Putt

Jones got the regulation par 4 on the 362 yard seventh, again missing his putt for a birdie from 10 feet.

On the 397 yard eighth in two, Bobby had a tricky, 18 foot putt that just curled off at the hole and he again made a look easy.

The champion reached the ninth green, 465 yards, with two sensational shots, tried hard for an eagle from 25 feet, but missed by two feet and holed for a birdie 4.

Jones lost a stroke to par for the first time when he put his second in a trap on the 10th and came out pooty, needing 5 to get down. He just failed to get it back when he lipped the cup from 10 feet on the 11th, getting par 5. He was still one under par for 11 holes.

On the 530-yard 12th, as gallery marshals yelled for them ahead to move back, Jones remarked: "It's quite all right," and then turned without a second's hesitation and walloped a spoon 230 yards, just short of a trap guarding the green's approach

Again he narrowly missed his putt, and took 5. Walking to the 194yard 13th Jones refreshed himself from a vacuum bottle. His tee shot was a beauty, 10 feet from the tin, but he putted too strong and took 3.

Bid for Birdie on the 15th Misses by 2 Inches

Bobby's second was off line on the 444-yard 14th, rol ng from the green. He chipped 12 feet short, but sank the putt for his par 4. The champion a putter failed to click on 15th, his bid for a birdie stopped two inches short of the cup. He took par 4, leaving him one stroke behind Horton Smith at this point.

On the 315-yard 16th, a dogleg calling for a well-hit hook from the tee, Jones drove fully 275 yards. He pitched to 9 feet of the pin, but the putt curled away once more and it was another par 4. Bobby drove hole high, to the left edge of the green, on the 262-yard 17th He went 5 feet the cup, but holed out for his 3

Jones reached the 18th with two fine shots and again had a putt of about 15 feet for a birdie

For about the seventh time, he missed by a matter of inches and got his par.

'Twixt Tee and Cup

By BILL GRIMES

According to Walter Hagen, the United States open championship at Interlachen is Bobby Jones against the field. "The Haig" says that until Bobby began to crash through regularly, the favorites were an eight or seven to one bet. Now Bobby is a two to one favorite.

A field of 142 of the country's leading golfers will play the first round of the United States open today at Interlachen. The U. S. open is the blue ribbon championship.

Commenting upon golf in the Orient, Walter Hagen stated that they hook and slice and miss two-foot putts "down under" the same as they do on "top side."

The field at Interlachen is expected to encounter plenty of trouble at the ninth hole, which is a brassie shot over a lake.

Hagen advances the opinion that in order to win the U. S. open a player must have swing and a head and be able to forget bad holes and overcome sinking spells, which every contestant will experience.

Although Bobby Jones has taken no less than four 7s in recent U. S. open championship, he has won the title more often than any other contestant.

Backers of Bobby Jones are banking upon his mastery of all shots, his ability to play the right type of shot in the pinches, his stout heart and his wonderful competitive spirit.

Although he is only 27 years old, Bobby Jones is regarded as a veteran, which fails to mean a hit with Walter Hagen, who is many years the senior of the Georgia Peach.

Jimmie Travers of Commonwealth gets a great kick out of relating the story of the 7 he shot against Francis Ouimet at Hyannisport, only to be 14 down.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

Good golfers almost always appear to be leisurely golfers. This appearance can be deceptive. What appears to be slowness and leisureliness often indicate only that the player requires time to plan each shot. The par player always plans his shot before he makes it, going through a mental process such as I have described previously. He has a mashie pitch shot, for instance, and before he makes it, and as he plans it, he sees the ball, not where it is, but on the exact spot on the green where he wants it to be after he strokes it. Next he sees clearly just how he is going to get it there. After this is clearly in his mind, he approaches the simple part of the shot—stroking the ball. Now contrast this with the opposite way of playing. The high score player takes a casual, hasty look ahead and then quickly gives the ball a bat. This practice, and not real lack of golfing ability, runs his scores up. I urge all golfers who have that habit to begin at once to improve their play through the mental route, because you can experiment for years with your clubs and not get far otherwise.

HORNSBY AND VEECK DENY RUMORS

Chicago, July 10 (INS)—Reports emanating from Cincinnati to the effect that Rogers Hornsby will never play another game with the Chicago Cubs were met with general denials here today.

"There's nothing to the rumor," said William Veeck, president of the Cubs. "We have not reached the point where we are trying to get rid of .375 hitters."

Hornsby himself was surprised to hear the report that he was "out." Hornsby is recovering from a leg injury.

"It's all news to me," he said when reached by telephone at his home in Anglum, Mo.

"I have had no trouble with officials of the Cubs or any of the players at any time since I joined the club," he continued.

"President Veeck ordered me to report to the team at Chicago July 16 and I will be there to start working out. My ankle is coming along fine and I expect to be playing before the season ends."

Hornsby is considered the greatest right handed hitter in the history of baseball.

Foul Fighters Defraud Fans and Undermine Boxing

punches, and I'm dead certain I shall win."

Dempsey didn't punch low intentionally, but in the heat of battle some of his shots went below the line. But he never squawked if his opponent also hit him a little bit low.

THE FOUL EPIDEMIC

There has been low punching since boxing started. But in the old days a ring warrior only gritted his teeth and came back fighting when his rival infringed on the rules.

European fighters have been partly responsible for the epidemic of fouls in American rings.

Phil Scott, British champion, has claimed foul repeatedly.

Max Schmeling, the German heavyweight, set up a claim of foul in the Sharkey fight.

Primo Carnera, Italian heavyweight, yelled foul in the Godfrey match.

Some of our leading heavyweights are marvelous actors. When they claim foul they roll around on the canvas and then often go off into an alleged faint.

When Jack Delaney won on a foul from Paulino, he didn't realize the official decision was his on a foul until tipped by one of his handlers. Delaney was getting up to take a bow when announced as the winner when one of his seconds pulled him back on his stool and yelled in his ear that he had been fouled.

"No Contest" bouts have also tended to wreck the boxing game. They have been even more injurious than those which have wound up with a foul ruling.

FANS GET POOR DEAL

In the affairs ending with a foul, the fans have usually had three or four rounds of action. They have been short-changed, but have got something for their money.

In the "No Contest" bouts the public has received harsh treatment. It has paid good money to see a boxing bout and has not got anything in return.

Godfrey was also a figure in one of Boston's "No Contest" matches. When he fought Jimmy Byrne, Referee Johnny Brassill tossed both men out of the ring. In the opinion of the referee, neither Godfrey nor Byrne were giving their best efforts. Their purses were ordered held up.

The fans had booed the bout almost from the start. They were disgusted at the efforts of the two men.

NO MONEY RETURNED

The fans did not get a great deal of nourishment out of the "No Contest" ruling and the fact the boxers were not paid. At the time neither the boxing law nor the rules of the boxing commission made any provision for the disposal of money ordered held up by a referee. And so the club held the purses of the two men.

The boxing clubs did not approve of keeping money ordered held up. It left them in a poor position with the public, managers and boxers. Their subsequent shows suffered.

The Jackie Fields-Gorilla Jones bout was also declared "No Contest." The ruling was made by Referee Joe O'Connor. In this case the boxers got paid, as the referee before leaving the ring neglected to enter an order holding up the money of the two men.

But in every case of a "No Contest" ruling Old John Public took it right on the chin. He didn't see a fight and he didn't get his money back.

The boxing commission recently passed a ruling that where money is ordered held up by a referee it must be turned over to the State treasury.

The State will benefit from this rule, but Old John Public is still left carrying the bag.

Another article on "The Inside of the Fight Racket," by Jack Conway, will appear in tomorrow's Boston Evening American.

REFEREE IS SOLE JUDGE ON FOULS

New York, July 10 (AP)—New York referees, numbering more than a score, were summoned before the State Athletic Commission today for an interpretation meeting of the new foul rule, designed to end victories on low punches brought about by disqualification of boxers.

The referees were told of some minor changes. They must in future make their decisions as to fouls without appeal to judges. This ruling was regarded as significant in view of the recent Schmeling-Sharkey bout when the referee did not see the foul which ended the fight, a judge making the final decision that gave the German the heavyweight title.

Referees were instructed to warn boxers hitting low in such manner that the judges will be advised of the warning and will mark the round as lost to the offender. If a boxer loses three rounds in one fight through low punches he must be reported to the commission and will be suspended.

The commission today explained that it has not wiped out all other fouls, of which the low blow is the most prominent. A boxer still can lose a bout by hitting an opponent when he is down, butting and several other infractions of the rules.

A letter fro mthe British board of boxing control advised the New York commission that Max Schmeling would not be recognized as British heavyweight champion until he fights Phil Scott.

Babe Hunt Beats Al Friedman

Kansas City, July 10 (AP)—Viewed by patrons firmly grasping their first foul checks, Babe Hunt, Sioux City (Okla.) heavyweight, achieved his second victory over Al Friedman of Boston here last night.

The Oklahoman, who weighed 196 pounds, was awarded six rounds, two going to Friedman, who scaled at 183½. The fighters had agreed to do it all over again without pay if the fight ended through a foul

By JOE CASHMAN

Anything's easy, if you know how.

After the Red Sox had lost 10 games in a row to the Senators and it appeared as though they might never win another from the league-leaders, out stepped Milt Gaston to show how it is done.

Without turning a hair, he set back the enemy 3 to 1.

It was the eighth victory of the season for the Sox ace, proving that a pitcher who has the stuff can win with any team, even in this era of the lively ball.

Joe Cashman

There are many great hurlers in baseball, but none has been any more effective than Gaston this season.

He has lost only one more game than he has won, has finished 16 of the 17 games he has started, has been batted out of the box but once and only once has he given as many as ten hits while losing.

He has beaten Cleveland and Chicago twice, all the other clubs, except New York, once and he held the Yanks safe for four innings on one occasion to add a victory to Danny MacFayden's string.

His best performance was at Fenway Park, on May 30, when he blanked St. Louis with two singles, but almost every game he has either won or lost has been something to write home about.

Gaston Effective Even While Losing

On the whole, he has been more effective in defeat than in victory, which is the true sign of mound greatness. Most any hurler looks good out in front. Only the stars shine in defeat.

He pitched two four-hit games in succession against the Athletics and Senators and lost both by a margin of one run. He held the Browns to seven hits in 11 innings only to fall 1 to 0, and he limited the Yanks to the same number of bingles in 10 frames to lose, 3 to 2.

It is natural to assume that if he were with a first-division club, he would have more than a dozen victories to his credit at this writing.

He just toyed with the Senators in the second Wednesday game. Watching him turn the hostiles back made the fans who had been doubting earlier in the afternoon that the Sox had won even the first game of the season from the visitors wonder how the s— ever beat the Nats.

In the first four frames, he gave just two singles. In the fifth, with a three-run lead, he allowed three singles in a row to fill the bases with nobody out.

Pitcher Gets Out of Bad Situation

Even that didn't bother him. He forced Brown to hit into a double play while one run was scoring and retired the next batter easily.

In the final four frames he gave but two hits and ended the contest by fanning Al (The Great) Shires. Milt has been around the big leagues for several years. He saw service with New York and St. Louis before coming here from the Senators with four other players in exchange for Buddy Myer.

Myer is a great player, but if the Sox received only Gaston for him they would have received the best of the swap.

N. E. TITLISTS TO GO TO BIG TRACK GAMES

The entries are still coming in for the 26th annual N. E. A. A. A. U. track and field championships that are staged at Pfaffman's Oval, Quincy, under the auspices of the Quincy Massachusetts Bay Colony Tercentenary committee on Sunday, July 20.

This year the N. E. A. A. A. U. track and field committee have decided that six winners will be sent to the A. A. U. national track and field championships that are to be held at Pittsburgh, Pa., August 22.

St. Joseph's Holds Athletic Night

Brother Gilbert, the man who developed Babe Ruth and Bob "Bibber" McCoy, the Cambridge mauntain who nearly won the heavyweight wrestling title from Sonnenberg, will be the guests of honor and the main attractions at the athletic night of St. Joseph's Parish in East Woburn tonight.

Brother Gilbert is going to tell a large gathering how the Bambino got started on his brilliant career. McCoy will entertain with an exhibition of wrestling holds.

There will be a few boxing bouts on the program and one of the favorite forms of pugilism, a battle royal.

OVER THE PLATE

By JOE CASHMAN

Babe Ruth has been suspended for three days.

Since he is suffering from an injured finger and probably won't be able to play even when the ban is lifted, the expulsion isn't a very serious blow to the Yanks' pennant chances.

It is a great break for the umpires, however.

Players all over the circuit were beginning to realize just how poor most of the [illegible] were. Even players didn't dare protest any decision, no matter how bad, now that the game's greatest star and gate attraction has been punished.

Law and order has been restored. The umps are safe.

Against almost any other umpire we would be inclined to take the Babe's word, but not against Brick Owen, who put him out Tuesday. Little that umpire does is right in Ruth's opinion. They just don't agree.

The feud dates back some 15 years to the time when the Bambino was one of the game's great southpaw pitchers and a member of Bill Carrigan's championship Red Sox.

He was sent in to pitch one fine day against the Chicago White Sox. If our memory isn't faulty, and the same "Brick" Owens was the umpire-in-chief.

The first ball the Babe threw could have been called either way. Owen called it a ball. The Babe grew angry.

The second, third and fourth balls he threw. None was really bad or really good. All were ruled balls by Owens, and the batter strolled to first.

Ruth was infuriated. He dashed for the plate, got set and smacked the "ump" right on the whiskers, for which he was handed a lengthy suspension and a heavy fine.

Round one of the Ruth-Owen feuds will long be remembered, not so much because of the Bambino's participation therein, but because of what followed that sock on the chin.

Naturally, none of the other Sox pitchers were warmed up and Bill Carrigan rushed [illegible] down in front of the bench [illegible] to see what it was all about.

There were [illegible] there and one just as good as any other. Carl Mays, Dutch Leonard, Eddie Foster, Ernie Shore.

Old Rough finally selected Shore. The long, lazy Southern schoolmaster [illegible] and got to the [illegible] settled down to work.

The runner on first unwisely decided to steal. He was out by yards.

Shore set down the next two batters.

And the next 24 batters!

Going in stone cold, he retired 24 rival hitters in order to complete as perfect a game as was ever pitched, but there is no mention of it in the records because Ruth walked the first man.

MAJOR-MINOR LEAGUES IN FIGHT

Chicago, July 10 (A. P.).—A new front in the baseball wars took form today as the three "big" major leagues and two smaller circuits considered an ultimatum from the American and National Leagues, which demanded that the minors either accept the universal draft or hunt alone for players.

In the first [illegible] season joint meeting yesterday, American and National league club owners approved a resolution that all player relations with the three class A leagues, the International, Pacific Coast and American Association—[illegible] Eastern, a class B [illegible] and the class A Western—be covered [illegible] 1, 1930, [illegible] that agree to become [illegible] the universal draft.

The drastic step means that the major leagues will release no more players to the minor groups involved, or buy any players from [illegible].

[illegible] Pacific Coast officials [illegible] to withdraw their [illegible] to the universal [illegible].

George A. Putnam, secretary of the Seals, characterized the edict of the major leagues as "an autocratic mess that will not be foisted off on us without a fight."

Dale Gear, president of the Western League, called the action "merely a move on the part of the majors to get complete control of baseball."

Raquel Thinks Alphonse Is Trying to Shape Her to His Will

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Leaving a desert village in Arizona, Raquel Rojos, half-Spanish and half-Anglo was, goes to New York, where her beauty wins for her a place as chief model for the noted fashion expert, Alphonse Courbet. He selects her and another model, Greta Tosak, a stunning blonde, for his Paris show. On the trip across, Bertie Adams, a millionaire sportsman, while drunk, breaks into the suite Raquel is occupying and is denounced for his confidences. Before the ship docks, he apologizes to her and they arrange to meet in Paris.

CHAPTER 37

There was much merrymaking on the Gloire de France that evening. The music had never seemed so lively, the dancers so frolicsome, camaraderie so spontaneous.

An undercurrent of anticipation throbbed through the giant ship. Ahead there, in the night, was France. Tomorrow these people would scatter like a lake into the banks of which outlets are cut, leaving its waters free to seek whatever course is their level.

"Many of them I'll never see again," Raquel told herself with a little twinge of regret. "Perhaps none of them."

Yet here they had been herded together, a little world by themselves, scudding along through blue-green water. Crossing their wires of ambition, of love, of hate, of passion, as if they might be going on this way to the end of time.

Greta had told her that one does not wear formal dress the last evening on ship. So she had chosen a frock to suit her mood. A frock built of crepe-de-chine and buoyant youth. A frock that laughed and swirled in motion, that settled into soft folds and tried to look sedate in repose.

But there was little repose in Raquel this night. She was like a scarlet poppy romping with a high wind

Deck Stroll
Alphonse Solicitous

"Shall we stroll a while on deck?" Alphonse asked her when they had finished a particularly seductive waltz.

"I'd love it," she agreed at once.

"Then I will bring your wrap."

"Oh, no. Don't bother. It's warm. I like the wind from the sea."

"I know, ma petite. But it is treacherous, that wind. You have been dancing. It is not safe."

They walked forward, shoed out where they could feel the wind pressing velvet palms against their cheeks. Raquel forgot the lingering arms, the touch that had chilled her. There was nothing but the allure of the night. And the stars, so close overhead that it seemed she could reach up and pluck them to make a twinkling wreath for her hair.

The long, tapering fingers on her arm brought her head out of the stars. She recoiled, imperceptibly.

"Tomorrow," she said, wishing to make conversation, "we will be in Paris."

"And I for one shall not be sorry," said Alphonse. "The life on shipboard has no interest for me. It is too compressing. All these people, they are polyglot. Like the French potage, or peasant soup. Everything is thrown into it. The result is bound to be uncertain."

"There are a few interesting ones—Mrs. Dexter—and Bertie Adams." The last name slipped from her unintentionally. She should not have mentioned it, after the unpleasantness in her room.

The fingers on her arm tight ened

"You — like this young Adams?" Alphonse asked, suspiciously.

Raquel's white teeth were bared. They caught at her under lip. It was more than vexation that prompted her to make a curt answer.

This man, by whom she was employed, for whom she made money meant to grind his heel into her if he could. He thought to fashion her to his will. To take control, not only of her time, but of her interests. He must be made to know otherwise. Now, in the beginning. She must curb her temper, though, or she would lose the conflict.

Never Love
Raquel Positive

"I suppose you might call it that—liking," she said, easily. "I admire his type. He's young, and clean, and strong. And he's fine, too, when he's himself. When he lets go, like he did the night he got into our rooms. I can feel nothing but pity for him."

Alphonse winced at the word "pity."

"Pity is akin to love," he said, sardonically.

"Well, I love not of it. I do not know love."

"You will learn."

"No. I shall not. Now, or ever."

Alphonse laughed. The laugh of a man who has seen drama change to lightest comedy and back again. So long as the little Raquel's heart was empty, it could be filled. Beauty, luxury fine clothes, fine food is, rare jewels, strange places, sparkle, splendor, LIFE—they would fill it. He must create in her an appetite for these things. The insatiable appetite

"You must not be angry with me, ma petite," he said ingratiatingly. "I think only of your good. Great things await you in Paris. I do not want them spoiled by a silly affair of the heart. The young scamp Adams is a wastrel."

"All men are, when they dare to be," said Raquel. "Only some selfish desire, some goal they hope to gain for themselves, keeps them from throwing themselves headlong."

"In that you are wrong, ma cherie." He spoke as a father to an impatient child. "But we will not discuss it. It is a delightful evening. I feel a responsibility for you, my child. I shall expect you not to make my role of adviser too difficult."

"I shall sincerely try to please you in all things, M'sieu'," she said earnestly, "so long as you do not ask of me my freedom. I have borrowed many things—I have hurt those who loved me"—laughing Jack Farrell—"those who loved me, Tony and Baby Joan—"but freedom I will not give it up, after paying so high a price."

"It would be the last sacrifice I should ask you to make," said Alphonse suavely.

This ship of a girl was a woman. A clever woman and a determined one. Something had disillusioned her. She had once experimented with dry ice. She was like that. Burning cold. Dry ice melted. In time.

Raquel awoke before dawn. Voices were shouting outside the port-holes of her cabin. There were thumpings and rumblings.

She jumped out of bed, confused. What was this strange feeling? As if the world stood still. She could hear her own heart beat. She rushed to the nearest port-hole

Off for Carnival
Raquel Is Wistful

The ship had stopped. Below, on dry land, men were rushing back and forth. Their voices set up a hedlam of unfamiliar noises—words she did not catch.

Then it all came over her with a tingling little rush. They were shouting in French. This was France. She was in France.

Now she made out other figures on the dock. Could those two over by what looked like a table or a counter be — why yes! Greta and Bertie Adams. She could just make them out. Had she overslept? Were passengers going ashore? Why had not Greta called her? She rushed to look at the clock in the gray room. Two in the morning. They were not to land until 8. She rang for the steward.

"What is it?" she asked excitedly. "Am I late? There are people ashore."

"Non, Mademoiselle," the steward assured her, with his knowing smile. "go ashore for carnival. They will return."

Raquel returned to the port-hole, leaning tremulously out. She wanted to be there with Greta and Bertie Adams, musing carnival too. She was on the point of summoning Alphonse, to beg him to take her where her feet might touch alien soil, if only for a moment.

No. Not Alphonse. She must assume no intimacy with him if she was to keep him at a distance, as she meant to do.

She looked up at the sky.

A lambent moon swung, like a lazy blood-orange lantern, over the treetops beyond the water's edge.

What's in Fashion?

Jacket Costumes for All Day Long

Directed by AMOS PARRISH

NEW YORK, July 10—This is the kind of weather that makes things grow. Even fashions

And one fashion that's growing bigger and better every day is the fashion for short jacket costumes. A dress with a short jacket that matches exactly . . . or harmonizes closely. Or a skirt with matching jacket.

All kinds of jackets, too. Straight cardigans . . . boleros . . . nipped-in waistline jackets . . . jackets with capes . . . jackets with peplums.

Everywhere we go we see them. At big sports events . . . on the avenues . . . round the bridge tables . . . at smart resturants . . . at night clubs.

Women are wearing them all day long. Why? Because (1) they carry out the ensemble theme that runs through all 1930 fashion more so than a coat in warm weather. And (3) just because they're good-looking and women like 'em. And that's the best reason in the world.

We've sketched four jacket costumes . . . out of thousands that we've seen. Four typical, smart costumes. Typical of four different times of day

GENERAL WEAR

For everyday, general wear, you can count scores any day just like the short jacket suit of shantung shown at the upper left.

You'll count them in navy and black . . . and in the loveliest soft pastel tints. And in these lighter colors you'll see them, too, worn by spectators at sports events.

A jacket costume favored by hundreds of good golfers . . . and spectators, too . . . is the cardigan jacket costume of jersey like the one sketched at the upper right. Worn with a sweater for playing . . . and with a blouse for watching.

AFTERNOON COSTUMES

Lots of women have had a smart idea. They find they can make a fashionable jacket costume out of any afternoon dress . . . simply by adding a short velvet or velveteen jacket. Just as the very smart young person in the lower left sketch has done

Here is a smart bolero. She might have one of the fitted jackets . . . Victorian era style . . . the same sort she'd wear over her evening dress.

And the evening dress of chiffon, lace or flat crepe, with its own matching jacket . . . is one of the best fashion ideas we've come across for a long time

Because it makes two dresses out of one. A formal one without the jacket . . . a more informal one with the jacket

There are many more jacket costumes . . . just as much in fashion as these. We think you'll like them all

The Beauty Box

BY HELEN FOLLETT

IT IS a good idea to keep in mind that muscles are like rubber bands; stretch them too far, keep them that way, and they won't snap back. This is true of muscles that extend from the back of the neck down to the shoulders and upper arms. They are stretched when the head is carried low and forward. The result is humpy shoulders, rounded and unlovely. Pulling in the chin rules the lines of the throat and makes collar bones loom up like shelves. Posture is important. Yet nobody thinks about it.

The old-fashioned girl used to boil quince seeds or flaxseed, making a gummy mess which she used doing her hair into crimps and beauty-catchers. A gray deposit was left on the strands and the hair felt crisp, as if it had been dipped in sugar. Now Miss Beauty-Seeker can buy handoline at any beauty shop or drug store. It is inexpensive and satisfactory as a hair curling medium.

No matter how well the teeth are brushed, it is possible for foreign substances to gather between the teeth or to cling under the gums. For that reason, it is necessary to use dental floss once a day which must be passed between the teeth carefully, so as not to bruise the gums. Any abrasion subjects the gums to an invasion of bacteria. After brushing the teeth, the mouth should be rinsed, water swished between the teeth.

Climate has a good deal to do with the health of the hair. In a dry climate it breaks. In a moist, warm climate it is likely to be thick and abundant. Hair grows faster in the summer time than in the winter. One hair doesn't grow as fast as its neighbor—one may be young and the other old. The human halo is always renewing itself.

The daily quota of drinking water is six glasses. This amount can be cut down somewhat if much tea or coffee is taken. A drink of cold water before breakfast stimulates the action of the intestinal tract and washes the stomach clean. The kidneys are the body's drains and a certain amount of fluid is necessary for their health and well-being.

How to Keep Well

By DR. R. S. COPELAND

Diet May Cause Dandruff

DANDRUFF is one of the most common diseases of the scalp. It is caused by over-activity of the oil producing cells of the scalp. This increased secretion of the oil glands of the skin causes a condition known as seborrhea. In connection with this there may be a covering of oily scales of a yellow flake like form on the scalp.

Dandruff is known to be infectious, and it may be transmitted from one person to another. It is said to be contagious. The word seborrhea is derived from the Greek word meaning "brain."

You will see that the description of Brain-like scales on the head," is well chosen.

Persons who suffer from constipation are not to have this symptom. In the past it has been thought to have been caused by a germ, but it would seem to be more a matter of wrong eating. Excessive consumption of butter fats, as for instance pork, will aggravate the trouble.

Keeping the scalp and hair immaculately clean is the only treatment that will bring a relief. For a man this is an easy matter, but for the woman with long hair it is much more difficult of treatment. It is well to wash the hair twice a week, with massage of the scalp. Alcohol or bay rum should be applied freely and thoroughly rubbed into the scalp.

It is wise for a person who is troubled with constipation and has dandruff to do everything to overcome the intestinal laziness. The diet should be extremely simple, as free from fats and oils as possible.

Let me repeat that one of the most important things to do is to keep the bowels open at all times. I say this because it is commonly overlooked that almost universally those who have dandruff and overactivity of the oil glands, particularly among young persons, are constipated.

Heart and Home

Let Time Dim Love

MY DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am in love with a boy who, it seems, does not love me. I went out with him a lot and he told me that he liked me better than any girl he knew. One night I told him I loved him. Since then he has only called once. When I see him with another girl or when he is with his friends he acts very cold. What shall I do?

ONE IN LOVE.

Dear "One in Love"—There is practically nothing you can do, except let time and other friends dim the feelings you now have for this young man. It is hard to exercise self control, but of course, you should not have told him you loved him without a declaration from him first. No doubt he wishes to have you forget him, and that is why he avoids seeing you. If he doesn't love you, of course, that is the finest thing for him to do.

Don't Marry Him

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am 22 years of age and engaged to marry a man four years my senior. There isn't anything I wouldn't do for him and in no way would I intentionally hurt him. He says he loves me, and the only way he acts he must worship me. However, before we became engaged (I have worn his ring now for five months) he asked me a question that was very personal—and although I didn't want to give him an answer, I did, because I love him so. He was rather hurt and said that he could never forget nor forget what occurred some five years ago—and then let the matter drop. A short time later he proposed marriage and presented me with a gorgeous diamond. Everything has run very smothly since we became engaged and are preparing for our wedding in August. Yesterday we spent the day visiting friends, and everything went nicely until the terrible subject was again brought up. He didn't mention any names (naturally), but it hurt me so that I cried all the way home. He felt terrible, so he said, and promised that as long as he lived would not bring that subject up again.

Dear Helena—By all means, don't marry this man. The hurts he can inflict now are nothing at all to what he can do after you are married. Surely little arguments will be an excuse for throwing your confession in your face. Few men are generous enough to share the secret of a girl's "past" without continually reminding her of it.

Miss Fairfax will be pleased to answer readers' questions regarding love problems which may be troubling them. Write on one side of the paper only.

Fruit Salad Should Aim at Color Effect

By MARTHA LEE

Organizer and Conductor of New England's Largest Home-Maker's Club of Over 37,000

BOTH REFRESHING and satisfying are summer salads daintily prepared, and economical jelled ones if you will vary the dressing once in a while. A piquant pot pourri dressing adds a simple combination. Or top off a fruit salad with smooth, chilly meringue dressing and a bowl delectable the whole dish becomes

A fruit salad does not necessarily have to be the hodge-podge familiar cold hash or somewhat squashy fruit mixed with a watery mayonnaise. It offers an easy and delightful way of serving fruit as a light luncheon or supper dish for hot weather, or as a dessert following perhaps by cheese and crackers, or it may follow the meat course at dinner to the great relief of digestion.

Fruit combinations should be chosen with an eye for color as well as a palate for flavor. Strawberries and bananas suggest such a combination. The cut strawberries may be used with the cut bananas, or the banana may be marinated in a heavy syrup of strawberries and then used with the fresh fruit, or the cut strawberries or even a fresh strawberry jam may be used in the French dressing which is served with the banana salad.

A fresh currant syrup, used to marinate a combination of fresh strawberries and pineapple, will add its share to the glory of the salad, particularly if a cream cheese is used for the dressing

All fruit for salads should be carefully prepared. When oranges or grapefruit are used, the thin, separating membrane and all the white skin should be removed from the sections. Nuts should never appear with their skins on

Fruits set in jello have additional flavor if the gelatine is well seasoned with orange or lemon-juice and plenty of paprika. The gelatine must be made very stiff so that the acid of the fruit cannot soften it too much. The fruit must be added after and before the gelatine sets

Oranges are, of course, an ever popular and always available salad material of the most refreshing kind. As a variation from the somewhat conventional diced celery and orange combination, chopped mint, finely cut pears, shredded pineapple, cubes of cucumber, preserved ginger, cream cheese, cut dates or thin slices of sweet onion or pimiento may be used with oranges in salad

TROPICAL SALAD — Lettuce leaves, 1 cup cantaloupe balls, 6 slices tomato, garnish of red pepper, any desired dressing.

With a vegetable cutter, cut small balls from a cantaloupe that is fairly firm in texture. Arrange several balls on a slice of tomato which has been placed on a nest of lettuce leaves. Garnish with pieces of red pepper or green pepper cut in diamond shapes. Serve with any desired dressing.

PEAR SALAD—Six pears, 6 stalks celery, mayonnaise, salt and pepper, 1 cup broken walnut meats and chopped stoned olives, lettuce leaves.

Select well formed pears and cut off a bit of the broad end so that the pear will stand steadily on the plate. With a small ball cutter remove the center, leaving enough of the pear to make a thick cup. Cut the celery into dice, add broken walnut meats and chopped olives and mix all together with mayonnaise, adding a pinch of salt and pepper. Fill the pear cups and serve on lettuce leaves.

Faithfully yours,

Martha Lee

MRS. EDNA M. KINGSBURY, P. O. Box 68, East Derry, N. H., has sent in another excellent recipe for molded peas. Mrs. Kingsbury tells us that this costs 46 cents and serves six. We can testify that it is wholesome and delicious

MOLDED PEAS

Two cups cooked peas
One small can milk
Two eggs
One-half teaspoon salt
One-eighth teaspoon pepper
One green pepper, chopped fine
One-quarter teaspoon mace
Few drops onion juice.
Lemon juice

Add one cup of liquid from the peas to milk, seasonings and chopped pepper (from which seeds and veins have been removed). Add the beaten egg yolks and peas. Cook in double boiler until mixture begins to thicken. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites and put into a mold, well buttered. Set the mold into a pan half filled with cold water in which has been laid several thicknesses of newspaper. Bake until firm. Turn out on a large platter. Pour the heated contents of a can of tomato soup around the mold, garnish with parsley or paprika on top. Serve with rashers of bacon, or with kippered herrings

Pointers on Etiquette

—By MRS. BEECKMAN—

When Meeting Acquaintances While Dining Out

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1—A girl is dining with her escort and four other couples when a young man friend of hers, who is a stranger to her group, stops at her table. Should she introduce him to her entire party?

2—Isn't it proper for him to ask for a dance under the circumstances?

3—If she accepts, with her escort's consent, and the chap asks her to stop at his table to meet some of his friends, is the girl being rude to her escort—provided she does not stay longer than necessary?

CAROLYN.

1—This introduction is not necessary. And the people who are the most accustomed socially do not do this. Indeed, this kind of promiscuous introduction is considered a bit provincial.

2—It isn't necessary for him to ask for a dance. But it is proper, if he wishes.

3—No, she will not be rude if she stops only a minute or so—but it must not be longer.

Details of Table Etiquette

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. With what are olives taken on to the individual plate?

2. Are they always eaten with the fingers?

3. Are pickles eaten?

4. Are French fried potatoes always eaten with the knife and fork?

RUTH M.

1. In silver and in silverplate we find the convenient serving piece for this. It is an olive spoon, a spoon with a rather short handle usually, and with a deep bowl that is pierced.

2. Yes—they are "nibbled" as they are held in the fingers. The pit should not be put in the mouth, that is, entirely put in the mouth and then we need not make the unattractive gesture of ejecting it from the mouth.

3. If they are served with a course they are eaten with a knife and fork, as are the other items of the course. If they are served picnic fashion, they must be eaten picnic fashion, by the fingers.

4. Yes, they should be. Or with the fork. Not ever the fingers.

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on etiquette submitted by readers.)

STOCK MARKET RALLY COMES AFTER DROP

New York, July 10—A moderate rally spread over the New York stock Exchange in this afternoon, following morning declines of 1 to 5 points that were coincident with the announcement of the suspension of a large brokerage house for infraction of the Exchange rules.

Renewed buying of railroad shares around noon resulted in advances of 1 to 2 points in New York Central, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and New Haven, and started a general rally in the remainder of the list.

TRADING IS DULL.

Independent strength was shown by a few specialties, including Gillette, Eastman Kodak, Ingersoll Rand, Studebaker, Briggs and Mc-Keesport Tin Plate.

The market opened irregularly higher, but news of the suspension, disclosed late in the first half hour, was followed by the interval of selling. Trading was again dull. Call money renewed at 5 per cent.

Professional traders continued their struggles with a torpid stock market, and had not much to show for their efforts until toward the close, when gains of 3 points or more in important shares of common.

Trading was but moderately enlivened. It was estimated by brokerage circles that the personal transactions of floor traders accounted for about 60 per cent of the activity.

Commission house sentiment was a little more optimistic and investment suggestions were plentiful, but virtually none was sanguine enough to look for any pronounced market for a while. Important banking interests seemed content to let the market alone.

The rails gave the best account of themselves, reflecting good views from the dividend payers' acceptance of improvement in traffic with the crop movement, and naturally as to the benefits to be derived from the increased class rates.

STEEL TONNAGE OFF

The United States Steel unfilled tonnage report showed a reduction during June of nearly 1,163,000 tons, which is about in keeping with expectations. New evidence that the drop in wholesale commodity prices is beginning to influence retail prices and the cost of living appeared in announcements of sharp price reductions by Sears Roebuck and Montgomery Ward.

The Labor Bureau, Inc., reported wage reductions in excess of increases in June, but reduction of retail prices may be a compensating factor from this source. Today's news was about a stand-off, with little market influence.

The Senate investigation morning followed suspension by the exchange of Sutro and Company because of the alleged connection of one of its customers with the Manhattan Electrical Supply pool.

This action of the exchange, following the Timken-Detroit suspension is interpreted as indicating that the stock exchange proposes to hold bonds of member firms more strictly than ever accountable for the acts of subordinates. It is felt in conservative quarters that a campaign against manipulation would do much to restore confidence in equity shares.

Johns Manville and National Cash Register dropped 3 to 5 points to new lows, then rallied.

Eastman rose over 9. New Haven soared for a gain of over 6 points in the late trading, while other good gains were scattere dover the list. Atchison rose over 8. The closing was strong.

Readjustment of speculative accounts coincident with the present active market traders were again ranging on the long side. Buying orders for 500 and 1,000 shares were more frequent in the popular issues and many of the seasoned rails and industrials sold from 3 to 8 points higher. Air Reduction converted a 5-point decline into a gain of more than 6.

BUSINESS ISSET FOR UPSWING, SAYS SHEEDY

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN

New York, July 10 (INS)—Back from a three weeks trip to the Pacific coast, Joseph B. Sheedy, executive vice-president of the United States Lines, is convinced, he declared today, that it will not be long before business in this country begins to show a distinct turn for the better.

"Business should improve materially as the year goes on," said Mr. Sheedy in an interview with International News Service. "I found a better feeling in the west, a tendency to take a more hopeful view. People are talking more optimistically than they were some time ago. Crops in the middle west are good."

Asked when he thought "the turn" in business conditions would come, he replied:

"Now, that's pretty difficult to say definitely. But I have a feeling that the bottom of the depression has been reached and that an improvement should set in soon."

Mr. Sheedy expressed the opinion that if the traveling public of this country would patronize American ships such a policy would benefit the nation as a whole. It would mean that every dollar so spent would remain in the United States. On the other hand, he pointed out, the patronizing of foreign ships by Americans is "economic injury" because money spent in this way goes into foreign circulation.

"I am not waving the flag," said Mr. Sheedy. "And I am not asking for my own company alone, but for all other American lines. If these services are to be developed to the point where they are second to none, they should have the support of the American people.

"Our building program is doing its part in relieving the unemployment situation and adding to the purchasing power of the country. Improvement in business will come about in a large measure through increased purchasing power."

Sheedy pointed out that at the present time the United States Lines is spending between $17,000,-000 and $18,000,000 annually in the United States in wages, insurance, taxes, supplies, fuel, et cetera, and that when its shipbuilding program is completed this amount will be increased approximately to approximately $40,000,000.

It is estimated that the various American lines now spend more than $75,000,000 annually in this country.

Sheedy said support and patronage of American ships by Americans would result in new shipbuilding orders being placed in American shipyards. This would give employment to more men. He estimated that about 60 per cent of shipbuilding costs goes for labor. The remaining 40 per cent goes for materials, the purchase of which helps many other American industries. He said there are about 140 industries in the United States that derive benefit directly from the shipbuilding industry.

* * *

"America's shipbuilding program is opening a new line of purchasing power," said Mr. Sheedy. "Support of American vessels—both passenger and freight—will help the country. It will enable the working men to buy more radios, automobiles and the like, and keep up the American standard of living."

When it was suggested to Mr. Sheedy that many Americans patronize foreign ships because liquor is served on them, he replied:

"Liquor is served on our ships westbound. The fact that we cannot serve liquors eastbound is discrimination. It is time to show that we Americans are good business men but poor treaty makers. It is a treaty proposition that makes this discrimination possible."

FORBES VIEWS PLANS FOR AID OF JOBLESS

By B. C. FORBES.

New York, July 10—President William Green of the American Federation of Labor welcomes the General Electric Company's new unemployment fund "as notable evidence that industry is acknowledging its responsibility for constructive plans to meet unemployment problems."

* * *

Since American industry lately has found it impossible to provide work for all, its leaders are really letting — rather tardily—that it is incumbent upon them to convince the unemployed and the public in general that they are giving really serious thought to the problem of unemployment and how to advance toward its solution. Sympathy can fill no stomach nor pay any grocery bill, yet the idle worker earnestly seeking a job would rather know that employers and others are seriously concerned about his plight than that nobody was giving him and his hungry dependents a moment's thought.

B. C. Forbes

This column makes no apology for keeping this pressing subject prominently before the executives and other business men, to ignore the unpleasant realities, to ignore the hardships now being suffered by a lamentably large number of bread-winners and their families would be worse than useless. The greater the attention devoted to it, the greater the likelihood of effective action.

Mr. Green's communication to the writer follows:

"In my humble opinion, industry should squarely face its responsibility and accumulate unemployment reserve to take care of emergencies for this type of obligation just as it does in dividends for depreciation, expansion, etc. As industries increasingly realize the interdependence of all forces in the economic and industrial world, they will understand what wage-earner buying power means to the maintenance of prosperity. Unemployment reserves would be a potent factor for our more stabilized prosperity."

President F. Edson White, of Armour & Co., reveals something not generally known, namely, that regular packing company employes are guaranteed 40 hours of work each week. Mr. White, in a letter to this column, after stating that he had studied the General Electric plan carefully, says, in part:

"Most of the fundamentals of the plan, as regards stabilization of employment, have been practiced in Armour & Co. for many years. In fact, the packing industry, over the years, adopted a plan of guaranteeing to its workers 40 hours work per week.

"We have no form of unemployment insurance, however. This is a subject that deserves the greatest study, and we believe with you, that industry must assume the initiative in coping with this problem of unemployment.

"Fortunately, we do not have the peaks and valleys of unemployment in our industry that seem to affect other industries. Our employes who have a year's service or over, are, in the most part, regular employes who work 52 weeks in the year, and are guaranteed 40 hours of work at the 'going' rate of wage each week.

"It is a question in our minds whether the payment of an allowance during a period of unemployment is the proper solution, or whether the guarantee of steady employment for the major part of each year would not be more satisfactory.

"We have finished with interest the Procter & Gamble plan of guaranteed employment, which has many features that impress us favorably.

"You can be assured that we, in Armour & Company, are deeply conscious of the importance of this problem and are giving it the most careful study and attention."

Here is a typical comment from Charles A. Stone, vice president of Webster, employers of from 13,000 to 20,000 workers:

"The principles for the stabilization of employment as outlined by Mr. Swope seem to me splendid. I believe that all the big corporations can do much along the lines he mentions which will help stabilize working conditions. Now is the time for the senior officers of the big corporations like the General Electric Co. to come to the attention to these matters, and it is a fine thing for the General Electric Co. to come out in front of the first to point the way.

"So far as the unemployment pension plan is concerned, I have not had time to go into the details of the proposed co-operation with all it workers is well known, generally.

"I am very certain industry must make vast improvement in human relations as expressed between capital and labor."

Certain it is that if capital doesn't the politicians will take action—doubtless, blundering action.

Let industry get busy and solve its own problems.

PORT OF BOSTON NEWS

By CARL MORRISON

Don't go near the Brittanic!

We admit that is queer advice for one who has just completed an enjoyable trip in New York to view the world's largest cabin ship.

It's not so bad as it sounds. What we mean to convey, is that the public will be unable to inspect the great motor liner next Sunday at 4 o'clock when she steps off to Boston on the second leg of her maiden voyage.

The "low-down" is this:

The Brittanic will be at Commonwealth Pier for about 45 minutes. She will have a full capacity of 1500, of which 450 are from Boston and vicinity. Only friends and relatives of passengers will be admitted to the gangway.

Admission will be by card only. Considering the 1500 passengers already planned for, the space on the boat will be jammed in a highly uncomfortable manner for the 45 minutes.

We look for at least 3000 people at the dock, but only a few hundred will get on board. Maybe Curley will do a "Grover Whalen" act, sending out luncheon.

The confusion which inevitably will result from the brief, crowded 45 minutes will dispatch the pictures of those wanting to inspect the ship. The public should keep in mind that the beautiful motor cruiser will run in and out of Boston every four weeks this summer.

On the next trip, Commodore probably will be given an opportunity of viewing the ultra-modern rooms and other conveniences of this new liner.

SEA-GOING CHRONICLE

Seamen signing up yesterday for cruises included Herbert McCall of Charlestown for Norfolk, Ernest W. H. Wullenweber of Melrose, for Hamburg.

BOSTONIANS AFLOAT

On the Isle of France of the French line, sailing from New York July 26, are the following from Boston and vicinity:

Mrs. Clifford H. Walker, Mrs. Edith H. Walker, Robert A. Walker, Miss Helen C. Walker, Mrs. J. A. Morgan, Miss F. O'Brien and Milton Cushing.

NEW SAILING LIST

The Port Authority has just issued its second booklet, telling of expected sailings to and from Boston. The first booklet found its way all over the world and the supply was quickly exhausted.

Ten important sailings are listed for the remainder of July, as follows:

VACATIONS

Otis W. Clark, port warden, is spending a month in Maine and New Brunswick.

Frank Peterson, secretary of the pilot commission, is commuting to and from Medford for part of his vacation.

LARGEST EVENING CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

What Will New England Do About This Gouge?

Freight rate increases of $12,000,000 a year are plastered upon the shippers of New England by the latest decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The total increases to the shippers of the country will reach $50,000,000 by this decision. And New England is assessed to the extent of 25 per cent of it.

The New England railroads did not require any such increase in revenues. At least, they had not asked for it. The boost is largely a gift to the railroads of the West and to the farmers of the West.

Help agriculture. That was the theme uppermost in the minds of the rate-makers. Increase freight rates, but not on the products of the Western farms. If they were frank they would have completed their text, "Help agriculture, AT THE EXPENSE OF THE INDUSTRIES OF THE EAST."

The new rates, by and large, will have the effect of placing a higher tax upon the manufactured commodities which move out of New England to the large consuming populations to our west.

Moreover, they abolish the common rate which existed for Boston and New York and give to the latter a two-cent preferential.

New England is required to go long distances for its raw products. It is required to traverse sizable areas for its finished products to reach the large centers of consumption. And by the new system of higher ratings the commission places a severe burden upon New England's will to work and revive prosperity while giving no consideration to the handicap of its geographical isolation.

These rates will go into effect in November. They can be amended ere that time, we believe. Our New England shippers can take some small advantage out of the "group shipping" possible in the new rate structure.

But they ought to strike at the new rate tariff as a whole.

Let Washington hear a roar of New England protest that will fill its ears and possibly drive some consideration for New England into its head.

We shall expect the Boston Chamber of Commerce and the New England shippers, through their agencies and as individuals, to combat this new discrimination before it is definitely fastened upon them.

More Auto Tests

State Should Protect Owners

The word "gypping" is no longer transient. It has come to have a fixed meaning in the American mind. It means the charging of an unfair price, the collecting of an unjust profit, the taking advantage of the customer who makes a forced purchase from the tradesman.

Captain Parker's order that the several hundred thousand motor vehicles in this State must be mechanically examined and obtain certificates of good condition is a commendable safety move, but it does open the temptation to a wholesale "gypping" of the auto owners by some unscrupulous mechanics or service stations.

Parker's order is obligatory. None can escape it if he desires to operate his motorcar. He must repair to a garage or accredited service station by command of the State and submit his car to such repairs as may be ordained and to such fees as may be collected.

The State is extremely high-handed in these matters. "Go and thou goest; do and thou doest."

If these public officials have become so fond of issuing arbitrary orders they ought to manifest the same ardor in protecting the public from exploitation through unconscionable charges. We are left entirely to the integrity and good honor of those with whom we cannot escape trading. In putting this new order into effect, the State must be prepared to summarily punish any service station found guilty of excessive charges.

For his part, the automobile owner must make certain he is patronizing a reputable station and men in whom he has confidence. There are many such; in fact, the "gypper" is the exception. But there are enough of the latter type to make caution necessary in choosing the place for the tests.

Hultman's Leadership

Reorganizing Police Department Is Sensible Way

Commissioner Hultman is moving forward sensibly if not with pyrotechnics to shake out the lethargy and sluggishness which he inherited in the Police Department.

We often lose sight of important developments in our civic life unless we pause at times to codify and analyze them. Such an analysis of the few weeks he has been in command of the protective department of Boston shows the following:

1—He has wiped out the interminable periods of delays in promotions, thus enabling patrolmen and officers to obtain early advancement as the reward of faithful or valorous service in their front line of duty.

2—He has rejected, with a promptitude and courage so often lacking among public officials, the early demand of the men for increases of salaries, but has plainly and commendably stated to them that he will be the first to prosecute their request for higher wages as soon as they have rejuvenated themselves in the public confidence of Boston—in other words, the personnel must prove its merit to be in line for promotion.

3—He has warned them to substitute good manners and patience in their dealings with the people for the surliness, cursing, ill-temper and abuse of citizens which was rapidly becoming too often the rule rather than the exception in police conduct.

In these matters the people can derive satisfaction while the police themselves can derive no cause for complaint.

We know the Boston Police as a whole to be a fine set of men. They viewed the scandals among their commanders with the complete disgust that was common to the Boston public. Their own morale was necessarily impaired; they suffered in the backwash. But Hultman is showing them the way out and we believe they and the city with them will find his leadership ultimately to their advantage.

McINTYRE ABROAD -:- By O. O. McIntyre

PARIS, JULY 10—Looking directly across the broad expanse of the avenue Georges Cinq from my hotel window is a five-storied building, splotched with those grey-black swords so peculiar to Paris. Each floor has a verandah with iron railings the length of the structure.

Each floor also has a row of ten windows with white double shutters. Early this morning there appeared on the third floor verandah a fellow who wore the unmistakable bed-ticking vest of a housemaid. He has utterly fascinated me for more than four hours.

When he made his first appearance he stood at the railing gazing down into the street. He remained in this attitude so long I looked down too, to see what was going on. There was nothing unusual, but still he stood there for more than an hour. Finally he jiggled a shutter and stood off to appraise it.

From then on for two hours he would turn from his rail gazing at intervals to jiggle various shutters along the building front. I finally determined he was just a shutter jiggler and tried to continue at my work, but it was impossible. He charmed me like the snake charms the bird.

I called my wife's attention to him and later she came in excitedly to announce: "Heavens, he has a helper!" Sure enough, another houseman had joined him and at periods they would turn from the rail and jiggle various shutters. They finally got me to doing it.

I found myself going around the room replacing the telephone set, straightening pictures on the wall, smoothing out the dressing table doilies and picking up match ends. At last I could stand it no longer and stood out on our balcony and tried to wave him away.

He evidently thought I had become flirtatious, for every time I would wave he would wave back, and soon his helper was assisting him in the waving. So that is why in my dire dilemma I have to write about a fool shutter jiggler instead of writing something interesting. I'll keep on until I get fired by cable.

Another distraction of the day was to be called to a side window by the French maid to view a funeral procession marching grimly in a steady downpour. Her knowledge of English is limited and at intervals she would exclaim fervidly: "Cute! Tres cute, n'est-ce pas?" That was something I never heard a funeral called before.

On the wall of our bedroom is a fishing picture in a scrofulously chipped gilt frame, called: "La Choix de Poisson." In straightening the picture I noticed some faint handwriting in English. Snooping a little with a magnifying glass I deciphered this:

"Two nights in Paris and O, the headache! Ned and Flo. August 11, 1927. On our honeymoon!

and what a honeymoon!" It must have been.

Among the various changes is noted the increasing number of monocles. Many Americans, too self conscious to wear them at home, sport them over here, and with astounding finesse too. These, of course, are augmented by the British and home grown monoclists, along with the occasional Japanese and Chinese. Incidentally one sees the highest caste Chinese here in contrast to the laundryman types at home. They ride about in Daimlers, wear morning silk hats and otherwise spread an aristocratic aura.

On a taxi ride today to the Halle aux Vins—the wine halls which appropriately enough have their own private zoo—my cry of "Arret" brought the taxi to a quick stop to greet a friend. Similarly my order of "Ducement" later slowed up the reckless driver who seemd to have wild hairs some place besides his head. When I finally get the swing of this language, I'll make it hum.

I went berserk today and bawled out every attache in the hotel I could find from the chasseur to the very British over-lord with a thin imperial and a frock coat. This is part of the fun here. A half hour later the housekeeper brought a vase of flowers, but I will not smell them. Poison ivy puffs me so.

At my next hotel in France I'm going to draw up an iron clad treaty with Monsieur, le proprietor, providing he must furnish me with at least one waiter who has not learned his English from a Berlitz phonograph, one non-English speaking waiter for cussing purposes, and a yawning cuspidor into which to toss breakfast coffee.

H. G. Wells Writes

ON "THE SCIENCE OF LIFE"

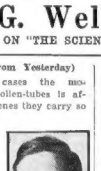
IN SOME cases the mobility of the pollen-tubes is affected by the genes they carry so that one kind is at a disadvantage, reaching the ovules too late, the ratio is altered.

Or one variety may be more delicate and have a mortality greater than another; we shall see in the following section how sometimes there is a hitch in the delicate chromosome mechanism; for example, two chromosomes may stick together during the reduction division and one of them may get pulled into the wrong gamete with strange and unexpected results.



H. G. Wells

But these are exceptions. In the vast majority of cases, whenever sufficiently large numbers of animals or plants are reared, Mendel's Laws have ample practical confirmation.

Sec. 5. Genes and Their Effect.

The inner ears of mice or the colors of garden flowers may seem trivial in themselves, but they illustrate clearly a mode of inheritance of the greatest and most general importance.

The chromosomes are an aggregation of an enormous number of genes, each playing its own little part in the production of the individual organism, each obeying Mendel's laws. Of this gene-army our germ-plasm consists.

We cannot catalogue here all the various actions that have been traced to these genes. Let us consider a single species, the Fruit-fly, which, as we have remarked already, is particularly well suited for genetic experiments and has been extensively and intensively studied.

In this insect it has been shown that one gene reduces the wings of vestiges, another cuts them off square, others slightly alter their vein pattern; still others the color of the body; one makes the feet grow double; one remarkable recessive gene not only turns the grey body tan-color but abolishes the fly's normal instinct to go towards the light; others influence fertility and others again the length of life. There is not a corner of the Fruit-fly's anatomy, not an aspect of his activities that has not been shown to be controlled in some way by these all-important genes.

Wonderful Girl, Marvelous Health and Spirit

It Is a Pleasure to Praise Her

AMY JOHNSON, DANISH BLOOD, BRITISH TRAINING

This girl, Amy Johnson, twenty-three years old, flew all alone, from England to Australia, nearly half way around the earth, in a tiny Gipsy Moth airplane.

It will interest Danes to know that her blood is Danish, although she was brought up in England and learned flying there.

You see the Danish stock in her strong face.

On her long flight over the ocean, through fogs, clouds and storms, over the tropics, with no landing place, she took care of herself, and, especially, TOOK CARE OF HER ENGINE.

Every time she came down on the long trip she overhauled her engine first of all. She is seen overhauling it in this picture.

The only woman in England certificated as a ground engineer by the British Air Ministry, this young girl KNOWS MACHINERY. The sound of her engine tells her what it is doing, what it needs—and what it needs she DOES.

She beat, by two days, the best record of a man flier from London to Rangoon. And she beat all records for a solo flight from London to India, making the trip in six days, on the way to Australia.

Some years ago, when votes for women caused much discussion in America, you would hear thick-necked gentlemen say: "If women want to vote, let them RUN RISKS, as men do. Let them show their courage on the battlefield." That, and other nonsense, was heard often.

Everybody knows that whenever a child is born the mother has to show courage that makes the average battlefield courage unimportant.

But mental courage is even more important than physical courage. And it is mental courage that gives to women their superiority.

It is seen in this girl, flying above the clouds, over the wide ocean, alone, coming down to get a change of underwear and more fuel, and going on again, smiling the whole way, as she is smiling here.

This is a REAL girl.

She will be in America soon. Let's hope she will marry and stay here. We need more such girls, and more good Danish blood.

Listen, World!

Jumping Beans

THIS IS the restless age—particularly for women. Fidgety natures, fussing around, rebelling against discipline like one of Mexican Jumping Beans.

Elsie Robinson

Ever see a Jumping Bean? Common little black seed—you'd never notice it, if it wasn't in a saucer in a store window with a crowd staring. You wonder why it's attracting all that attention. Then you see it jump, as if it were filled with dynamite. But it isn't filled with dynamite. It's just filled with worm.

These restless, aimless modern females make me think of that. Females who go around yawping about the slavery of housework and child bearing—saying what wonderful things they could accomplish if they had a chance—clamoring for careers—yearning for self expression. But what have most of them to express? Nothing but an inner itch.

Naturally, these ladies are as common as beans. But a bean, though common, is an extremely valuable vegetable—if it will stick to its beaning and develop worms. And the same goes for US GIRLS. Nature designed us for a dull but vitally important function. Then along came this yen for Self Expression and now we're filling the world with futile flutterings that get us exactly nowhere. Nevertheless, we get a big bang out of thinking how unusual we are—how superior to stupid, dull people who sit in one place and don't fidget.

But we're not unusual. There's nothing intelligent or dramatic or heroic about mere fidgeting. Fidgeting was about the first thing that happened in life. The marshes were one vast squirm. And presently the jungles were filled with jabbering jumpers, expressing themselves all over the place.

Remember that verse from Kipling's "Road-Song of the Bandar Log"? Scampering from limb to limb, the monkey folk cry—

"Here we go in a branchy row,
Thinking of beautiful things we know;
Dreaming of deeds that we mean to do,
All complete in a minute or two—
Something noble and grand and good,
Won by merely wishing we could.
Now we're going to—never mind,
Brother, they tail hangs down behind!
This is the way of the monkey-kind!"

That was the voice of the jungle—the restless, disorderly, aimless, undisciplined, self-expressing jungle. But when you've heard it all and seen it all, what does a jungle really amount to? Nothing. Just a lot of jabber and jump that doesn't create anything.

Civilization only started when creatures stopped jabbering and jumping and began to sit still and stick on a job—and all progress has come from sitting stiller and sticking longer. The stickers, not the jumpers, build the world. They are the boys who really express.
